'Raymonda'

ABT opens tonight

The American Ballet Theater opens a three-week stand at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center with a full-length performance of "Raymonda" (Petipa-Glazounov) at 8:30 tonight.

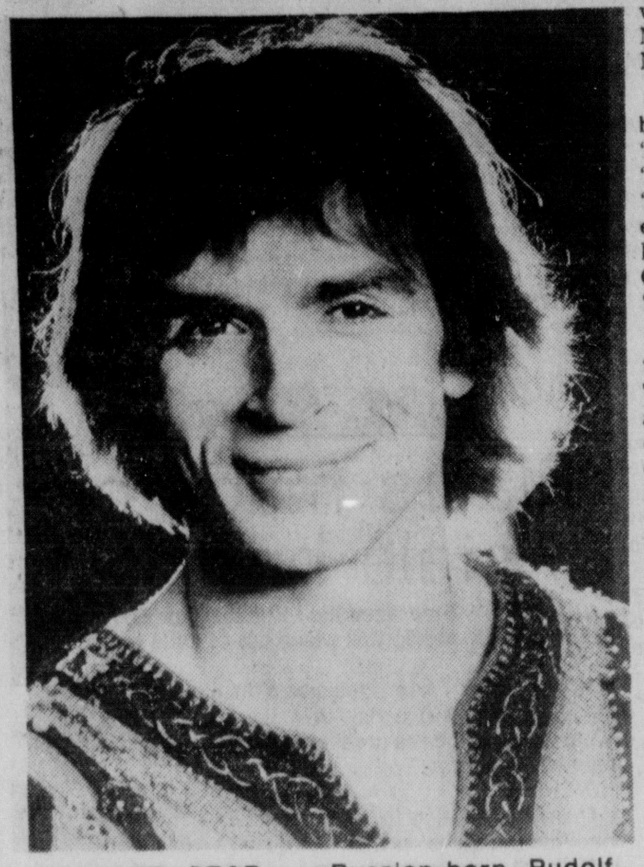
The ballet, a West Coast premiere for the company, stars Rudolph Nureyev, Gelsey Kirkland and Vladimir Gelvan.

During the course of the season, there will be many "firsts." Nureyev will dance for the first time with ABT in "Swan Lake," "Giselle" and "La Sylphide," and he will dance his first "Petrouchka" in America. The ABT dances Stravinsky's "Petrouchka" for the first time locally.

Making their debuts in Los Angeles will be Gelvan on opening night, and Mikhail Baryshnikov on March 1.

Local and West Coast ballet premieres include "The Leaves are Fading," "Le Baiser de la Fee," "Las Hermanas," "Medea," "Epilogue," "Hamlet: Connotations," "Push Comes to Shove" and "Shadowplay."

With various casts, "Raymonda will repeat on Tuesday and the matinee and evening performances on Wednesday. On Friday evening, the company presents "La Bayadere," the "Don Quixote" pas de deux, "The Leaves Are Fading" and "Fancy Free." "Swan Lake" will be danced matinee and evening on Saturday, and, "Gemini," "Le Corsaire," "Pillar of Fire" and "Shadowplay" will be danced on Sunday evening.



BALLET STAR — Russian-born Rudolf Nureyev will perform in the American Ballet Theater's full-length production of "Raymonda" at 8:30 tonight at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center. The ballet, opening ABT's three-week Los Angeles engagement, also stars Gelsey Kirkland and Vladimir Gelvan.

Lobster tale

America's delicious cannibal is in deep trouble. Overfishing, increasing consumption, and polution so threaten the true lobster, Homarus Americanus, that some biologists predict demand will exceed supply by 1980.

Caltech group to play

The CITCATS, a nine-man Dixieland jazz group from Caltech, will be featured at the regular meeting of the Society for the Preservation of Dixieland Jazz at the Arcadia Elks Lodge from 2 to 7 p.m. Sunday.

The CITCATS, is made up of professors, graduate students and staff members at the Pasadena college. They are the leader, Jack McKee, banjo; Jim Quirk, cornet; John Ferejohn, clarinet; Tom Holmb and Bill Fornaciari, trombones, Ted Carmely; tenor saxophone; Stephen Smith, tuba; Fred Van Veen, drums, and Dick Bazzell, a founding member of SPDJ, piano.

The public is invited to attend the five-hour jam session. Tickets are $1.50. Food and refreshments are available.

Air passenger traffic rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Domestic scheduled airline traffic gained 1.3 per cent for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1975, compared with 1974, the Air Traffic Association reports.

It said domestic traffic for the month of December alone increased by 5.4 per cent.

Total domestic and international scheduled airline traffic increased by 4.4 per cent in December. In 1975, total U.S. scheduled airline traffic decreased 0.4 per cent.

IN HARMONY — Sounds of Harmony of the Pomona Valley chapter of the Sweet Adelines, national women's singing society, will take part in "Salute to America" in Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School, at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The two-hour musical is the annual show of the Pomona Valley chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. From left are Doreen Keepers, Charlotte Nelson, Dee De Frank and Jo McGrath. Tickets are $4 for reserved seats and $3 for general admission.

Music revue based on Armour work

A musical revue based on Richard Armour's "Going Around in Academic Circles" will be presented in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, March 12, 13, 19, 20, 26 and 27.

Armour, whose 55th book is to be published this year, will participate in the production as host-narrator. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Mark Evans, who wrote the music book, and lyrics will also serve as the music director. Jesse Swan, who has produced more than 100 shows during his 20 years on the Claremont Colleges campus, will direct. He will be assisted by choreographer Linday Levy.

The cast will be headed by four professionals, with Scripps students, making up the rest of the cast.

Among the leads is Marla Adams, who for six seasons starred in the CBS television show, Secret Storm. Her career also embraced appearances on Broadway with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "The Visit."

Others are her husband, Paul Lyday, who appeared with her in stock company productions of "I Do, I Do," and also in the original production of "Oklahoma"; Richard Paul, who recently completed a 70-college tour through 30 states playing the title role of "W. C. Fields, 80 Proof," and Catherine Coulson Nance, whose musical credits include the San Francisco productions of "Threepenny Opera" and "Tom Paine."

Olivier to host series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Laurence Olivier will host, perform and help supervise a series of major dramas by 20th Century American playwrights to be broadcast by NBC Television in the 1976-77 season.

NBC, Granada Television of Britain and Olivier have contracted for the two-hour dramas at the rate of two a season under the title of "A Tribute to American Theater."

Black movie planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Columbia Pictures has acquired a new feature film, "Countdown at Kusini," a unique venture financed by the black sorority Delta Sigma Theta.

Columbia will release the movie, which is described as contemporary action-adventure about political intrigue and revolution in Africa. It was directed and co-written by Ossie Davis and stars himself, Ruby Dee and Greg Morris.

Delta Sigma Kappa, which has 85,000 members, financed "Countdown at Kusini" through a subsidiary, D.S.T. Telecommunications. Executive producer of the film was Lillian P. Benbow.

BONING UP — Mary Koessler, Chaffey High School, Joe Piscioneriof Cal Poly, and Sally Scholz, Chaffey High School, discuss with Edwin Norene, English teacher, right, the highlights of some college entrance tests.

Joyce Brothers

Aggressive driving

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I worry about my husband because in the past two years, he's had four automobile accidents. Since he drives to work every day, you can understand why I'm concerned. He refuses to ride with our neighbors who have room for him in a car pool. This would save money and gas, and he would avoid facing the traffic every morning alone. He thinks he is the safest driver in the world, but I know that his temper gets in his way. He's in a profession where tensions run high and where many men do part of their business during the cocktail hour. I'd appreciate it if you can think of any solution to this problem. I just seem to be incapable of turning the worry machine off and forgetting it. — M.K.

Dear M.K.: Even if you could pull a curtain on your anxieties, it would not be wise because these are very legitimate and serious concerns. Studies have revealed that drivers most prone to violations and accidents are people who are most willing to take chances with unknown experiences and who like to take risks generally. This conscious or unconscious desire to flirt with danger may be one result of frustration or boredom with work, or with life in general. Taking chances on the highway may be seen as a way of adding excitement to life.

Many drivers who have high accident rates are extremely aggressive individuals who refuse to recognize their anger. They repress this hostility until they get behind the wheel of a car and then it all erupts. Here, they feel as if they have all the power in the world and they enjoy cracking the whip and making everyone else on the road obey their whims and fancies.

Reckless, careless driving that leads to accidents can also begin with a feeling of loneliness, alienation and isolation. This is typical of adolescent car-crashers, but it's also common among adults. Youths are often more deliberate in their disregard for the law but the pattern is basically the same. The driver feels impotent and unable to control his life and the world around him so he tries to assert and regain his sense of power by being aggressive and threatening on the road.

I mention all these problems because I think it helps if people can recognize why they may be driven to behave as they do. Often, the people who would be the most relieved by joining car pools are the very ones who refuse to do so. The psychological problems that make them bad drivers also keep them from being able to share a ride. The experience is unbearable for them. They are threatened and terrified of the very essence of car-pooling, which is interdependence. What they are unable to face is that we all are interdependent and are growing more so every day.

I don't know if your husband smokes, but studies show that smokers have almost twice as many auto accidents as nonsmokers. This may be due to the personality type that becomes a smoker, but there is also the question of the constant distraction of the cigarette. There's no need to emphasize the added danger of alcohol. Many don't realize, however, that even a small amount of alcohol is enough to delay reactions and increase the likelihood of an accident.

I think the important thing for both you and your husband to realize is that most accidents aren't really accidents. They happen for a reason and it's most important for you to get your husband to examine and analyze the psychological factors behind his accidents.

League charts class for student testing

A course is being presented for area high school students who are preparing for college and for college students who are arranging to transfer to other colleges or universities by Assistance League of Upland.

The course is designed to help the student review for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), a two-and-one-half hour examination measuring verbal and mathematical reasoning developed by the student during his school years. California state colleges and universities, as well as public and private colleges across the nation, require the SAT test for entrance and use the scores along with high school records as a measure of academic skill and a predictor of the student's ability to do college-level work.

SAT tests are scheduled six times a year, and a student may take them as many times as he desires, even consecutively. The highest scores are used for entrance or placement by the school to which the student applies.

The next course will be held prior to the April 3 examination and will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. on March 16, 18, 23, 25, 30, and April 1 at the Assistance League Center, 8593 Archibald Ave., Cucamonga. Students are reminded that the registration deadline for the April test is Feb. 27 with late registration being accepted until March 12.

The SAT preparatory classes are limited to 30 students. Two Chaffey Union High School District teachers, Douglas Martin and Edwin Norene, conduct the classes, and each meets with each group of 15 students for one-and-one-half hours at every session.

Mr. Norene expresses the feeling of the teachers after the last course stating, "We both realize that many of the kids are scared to paleness at the prospect of having their ambitions and dreams hinge on the SAT score. Hopefully, our work with them will have put a tint of color in their complexions so that they will feel a bit more sure of themselves at the eleventh hour."

Tuition for the course is designated for the teacher's consultant fees. Books and refreshments are provided by Assistance League of Upland, a philanthropic, non-profit organization.

For further information and registration, those interested may call 984-4241 or 982-4601. Attempts to arrange transportation will be made on request.

Food seminar set Saturday by group

KEO TEGHTMEYER

Cal Poly Woman's Club has scheduled a taste-tempting scholarship fund raiser for Saturday at the Ganesha Park Recreation Center, 1600 N. White Ave., Pomona.

Mrs. William Dale, second vice president, has arranged an Oriental food seminar with Mrs. Keo Teghtmeyer, faculty wife, home economist and Chaffey College teacher, demonstrating the preparation of special Oriental foods.

Included will be the techniques of using won ton skins, stir frying and steaming. The printed recipes for the dishes will be available to the guests. All guests will have an opprotunity to sample the foods with tea.

March 27 rites planned by couple

NANCY WOLFINBARGER

Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Wolfinbarger of Chino announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Lee, to Robert Edward Baumgartner of Chino.

The bride-elect is employed by Bank of America in Chino. She is a 1974 graduate of Chino High School.

Mr. Baumgartner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hageman of Chino is employed by C.S. and M. at Chino Airport. He is a graduate of Chino High School.

The wedding will take place March 27 at Trinity United Methodist Church in Pomona.

Bosses Night charted

The Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction will honor their bosses at their annual Bosses Night on Friday at the Elks Club, 1471 West Holt, Pomona. Cocktail hour will begin at 6:30 and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Featured speaker will be Andy Etchebarren, catcher for the California Angels baseball team. Mr. Etchebarren was formerly with the Baltimore Orioles and with them played in four World Series games, and twice been selected for the All-Star game. His greatest moment was catching every inning of Baltimore's four-game sweep of Los Angeles in the 1966 World Series in which the Dodgers scored only two runs. Andy and his wife live in Hacienda Heights with their two daughters.

During the evening, Miss Yvonne Chacon, the local chapter's scholarship recipient, will be introduced and will explain the details of 'Polytherm' a solar energy building under construction by her Cal Poly architecture class. Miss Chacon will graduate from Cal Poly in June.

Reservations may be made with Marcia Phillips at 981-1931 or 985-8472.

An elevator is a car or cage that can be moved up and down a shaft inside a building to carry people and supplies from one floor to another.

In a modern elevator the car hangs from strong steel cables. Powerful electric motors at the top of the elevator shaft raise and lower the car with large pulleys.

To the other end of the steel cables a heavy counterweight is fastened. It balances the weight of the car so that it is easier to pull up the car.

As the car goes up, the counterweight goes down.

The car is guided in the elevator shaft by steel rails. Special safety brakes would grip these rails and halt the car should it fall.

In an automatic elevator, the passenger pushes a button for the floor number he wants. The button is an electric switch that stops the elevator at the right floor.

The elevator made it possible to build taller buildings, because people no longer had to walk up many flights of steps.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Mt. Everest veteran has eyes on Rockies

DARJEELING, West Bengal, India (AP) — Tenzing Norgay, the Sherpa who coconquered Mt. Everest with Sir Edmund Hillary in 1953, has been training other mountaineers and trekking the Himalayas ever since.

"I first tried to climb Everest in 1936. After I finally did it I gave it up," says the 63-year-old Tenzing, as he prefers to be called. "But for me the training of climbers, a trek sometimes as a vacation, that is my life."

The first impression on meeting Tenzing is his ready and flashing white smile. This writer joined a 19-member group in December for a high-country trek with Tenzing as "sirdar," the professional in charge of Sherpa and Nepalese porters. After four weeks with Tenzing the other strong impressions were his personal charm, sense of humor, and physical condition.

Tenzing was one of 13 children born to a peasant couple in a village in Nepal. He left home as a boy, became famous, and lives now in this 8,500-foot hillside city, a traditional staging area for Everest expeditions, as a citizen of India.

"I have also been to many countries, many mountains," said Tenzing. "Some day I want to see the Rockies of Colorado and climb in them."

A peak in the Rockies might seem too easy for the conquerer of the world's highest mountain. Everest is 29,068 feet; the higest peak in the Rockies is Mt. Elbert at 14,431 feet.

"Indian people cannot leave the country with their own money," Tenzing added. "I will need a sponsor to visit the Rockies." He has climbed in the Alps and the Sierra of California.

"I tried to climb Everest six times before Hillary and I did it," he said one day on the trek. "Once, when I was very young, a crazy man from South Africa and I tried it by ourselves. We did pretty good but we had to give up. We went up the Tibet side with no permission. A lot of trouble. Crazy. I never saw him again."

More than 40 climbers — including members of an unsubstantiated climb by Communist Chinese — have reached the top of Everest, but Tenzing and Hillary were first nearly 23 years ago.

Sherpas are a small tribe with no written language and a forgotten history, but they are believed to be descended from Tibetans, whose country was seized by Communist China in 1957.

Tenzing is the best known Sherpa, one who has distinguished himself on a major climb.

Tenzing is tall for a Sherpa, 5 foot 8, although photos showing him next to Hillary after their victory 23 years ago make him appear shorter next to the lanky New Zealander. He is a Buddhist who neither smokes nor drinks. Some Sherpas drink "chang," a home brew of fermented rice, millet, or corn.

He lives in a three-story hillside villa with his wife, four of his six children, and 25 dogs. For most of the year, he works in an office or a training camp near Everest in Nepal as director of field training for the Indian government's Himalayan Mountaineering Institute.

The institute, on sprawling hilly property a short jeep ride outside of Darjeeling, is also the site of the museum on Himalayan climbers, wildlife and culture. Darjeeling, with a view of Everest and Kanchenjuga, at 28,146 feet the world's third highest mountain, is a center for mountaineers as well as tea planters, general trade and Indian tourism. The city was founded as a recreation resort during the days of the British Empire.

"Every year I train hundreds of Indians and Europeans to climb as professionals or amateurs," says Tenzing. "The Nepal government charges too much now to have many Everest climbing permits and the Tibet side is closed by China. But there are still many difficult mountains that never have been climbed."

Tenzing likes to talk about a 1948 trip he took to Tibet, far north of the ancient capital of Lhasa, while working for an Italian scholar, Giuseppe Tucci, whose collections of ancient scrolls and holy artifacts were sent to museums in Rome.

Lhasa to a Buddhist is the most holy of locations and Tenzing is devout although, he says, he wishes that Buddhist monks would work as well as pray.

At least once a year Tenzing is the sirdar, in charge of porters, for a trek through the Singalili Ridge of the Darjeeling District across the borders of Nepal and Sikkim, last year annexed as the 22nd state of India.

He's likely to wear tennis shoes or oxfords, a white cap, a sweater or a windbreaker while the trekking Europeans or Americans might be dressed for blizzards. On some treks he takes either his 10-year-old son Jamling or his 13-year-old son Norbu.

One night around the campfire he spoke of his climb with Hillary, recalling how they had to thaw Hillary's boots over a stove flame before making the final phase of ascent. Tenzing does not like questions about which man actually put the first foot on top but has said over the years that it was Hillary.

For some of the trekkers last month the finest moment was on the afternoon that Tenzing, usually a mild taskmaster, especially after a 14-mile day, urged them to hurry up a hill at the 12,000-foot level near Sandakphu.

Over the crest was the first close view of Everest, flanked by Lhotse (27,890 feet) and Malalu (27,790 feet). To the south were the five peaks of Kanchenjunga.

They were white and towering, engraved against a flawless blue sky, with a wisp of snow blowing from the tip of Everest, which in the Sherpa language has a name that means "mountain so high no bird can fly over it."

"I have never seen Everest from here with such good weather. A good view," said Tenzing. Some thought he spoke wistfully.

Half of all Americans still around

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of all Americans who have lived since the Revolution, more than half are still around.

John Warner, administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, notes that a decade after the country's bith, the United States' population — from the Atlantic to the Spanish settlement on San Francisco Bay — was a bit more than four million.

Census figures reveal that about 400 million persons either were born here or have immigrated since then, compared with a current U.S. population of about 215 million.

Hobby helps Girl Scouts

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — When William Andrews retired, he felt he had to have something to do. So he took up carpentry.

He put up a good many buildings and made various structures during his 10 year retirement, and recently he was asked to help the Girl Scouts on some projects.

As a result the Girl Scouts have a new dock at Camp Low Echo on the shore of Lake of the Woods and two display carts for Scout literature.

Bell hits detente

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Detente between the United States and the Soviet Union is an illusion, says Republican Congressman Alphonzo Bell of Marina del Rey.

Bell, seeking the Republican nomination for the United States Senate seat held by Democrat John Tunney, said Monday that President Ford's signing of the Helsinki Accords last year will lead to permanent enslavement of Eastern Europe.

He also criticized Tunney for spearheading a Congressional drive to cut off American aid to two of the three factions fighting in Angola.

Bell also disputed Tunney's claim that American pilots had been flying supplies to two of the warring factions in Angola.

San Diego city workers irate

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The city's blue-collar workers are crying foul after the City Council voted itself and the mayor a $5,000 pay raise.

The vote Wednesday was "like a kick in the face" to city laborers, said Bill Espy, local president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.

Espy criticized council members for stressing austerity in city spending one minute and boosting their own salaries the next.

"The blue-collar workers of this city have been biting the bullet for the past three years," Espy said Thursday. He called the council members hypocrites.

HHH 'most electable' among Demos, says Meany

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The AFL-CIO appears ready to support almost any Democratic presidential nominee, but George Meany says Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey stands the best chance of defeating President Ford.

Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, called the Minnesota Democrat "the most electable" among the party's possibilities, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., "a very formidable candidate." But Meany stressed that neither he nor the labor federation was endorsing anyone at this time.

"I'm sure we will give a good deal of consideration to making a choice when the candidates have been chosen," Meany told a news conference Monday.

He said the only announced Democratic candidate the AFL-CIO could not support was Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, whom Meany called "a disaster."

Kennedy has removed himself from the race this year, while Humphrey has said he would accept a draft at the convention.

On the Republican side, the 81-year-old patriarch of the labor movement denounced both President Ford and his challenger, Ronald Reagan, as "products of Republican conservatism."

Though the AFL-CIO has adopted a neutral position for the Democratic primaries, Meany said he has encouraged individual unions to take part in electing delegates to assure labor a voice in he convention next July.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., blitzed the AFL-CIO executive council meeting which opened Monday.

He promoted his candidacy by meeting with 26 union presidents over breakfast, met with other labor officials at a poolside reception and later was guest of honor at a cocktail party hosted by Steelworkers president I.W. Abel and 10 other union chiefs.

Jackson has endorsements from at least four AFL-CIO vice presidents and is expected to receive more, particularly from the building trades.

Meany warmed toward Jackson, telling reporters that while he disagreed with the senator over a trade bill, Jackson's "longterm record is a good record and I'm not just going to walk away from him on that basis." A year ago, Meany called Jackson "no friend" of labor.

Asked about former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, who has received heavy labor support for the Florida primary March 9, Meany said he heard Carter's record "wasn't any too great when he was governor."

HELD IN SLAYINGS

Najim Najim, a Jordanian student expelled for radical activity, is led off by security men after he allegedly shot and killed two deans of the American University of Beirut today. Shortly after this picture was taken, Najim was shot and wounded in the shoulder by a close friend of one of his victims.

Two deans slain at American U.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Palestinian student expelled for radical activity shot and killed two deans at the American University of Beirut today, a university spokesman announced. One of the dead men was American, the other Lebanese.

The assassin, identified as a former engineering student named Najim Najim, held the university vice president and five other officials hostage for three hours before he surrendered to army commandos. He was shot and wounded in the shoulder by a close friend of one of his victims as the troops led him from the university administration building.

A university spokesman said Dean of Students Robert Najemy and Dean of Engineering Raymond Ghosn were slain by pistol fire at close range. Najemy, 56, was born in Worcester, Mass., into a family of Lebanese origin. Ghosn, 55, was Lebanese.

After killing Najemy outside the university cafeteria and Ghosn on the steps of the engineering building, the gunman went to the administration building looking for the university president, Samuel Kirkwood, a police spokesman said.

He did not find Kirkwood but took six hostages, including Louis Cajoleas, of New Orleans, La., head of the university extension program, and Ernest Conklin of Newton Falls, Ohio, the university comptoller, officers said.

Police said Najim threatened to blow himself and his hostages up with a hand grenade as troops and Palestinian guerrillas rushed to the campus and surrounded the administration building. He was reported armed with a pistol and two grenades.

"He made all sorts of demands. He seems a little unbalanced," said the spokesman.

At first, the spokesman said, he demanded to be taken to the Israeli-Lebanese border so he could make a suicide raid into Israel, then he asked to be turned over to Palestinian guerrillas.

As he was being led out after surrender, Najim was wounded by Joseph Cherbeka, a friend of Ghosn, who jumped out of a crowd and opened fire. Soldiers grabbed Cherbeka. Najim was taken to a hospital by Palestinian guerrilla policemen.

Najim, a Jordanian citizen of Palestinian origin, was one of more than 100 students expelled from the university in 1974 following leftist campus disturbances.

Bush in key role

Ford will unveil plan for U.S. spy agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will unveil his plan to reorganize supervision of the intelligence agencies at a televised news conference at 5 p.m. PST, Press Secretary Ron Nessen announced today.

The plan is for a streamlined intelligence community that will put CIA Director George Bush in position to control all spy agencies, administration officials say.

In advance of the news conference, to be held in the East Room, Ford will hold a 3 p.m. briefing on intelligence for Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress.

The President's actual executive orders and legislative proposals to carry out the plan will not be made public until noon Wednesday, Nessen said.

The news conference will be Ford's first to be broadcast live by television networks since last November.

Administration officials say Bush will be chairman of a small interagency panel which will give him the power to control the budgets of other spy agencies, such as those within the Defense Department and the National Security Agency.

Meanwhile, Bush is to meet with Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, to discuss the committee's request for the names of journalists and news organizations who have been on the CIA payroll.

A top intelligence official insisted that Bush would not turn over the names to the committee under any circumstance.

In another development, House members will be allowed to read the report of its special Intelligence Committee, but not to copy it or make the information public, House Speaker Carl Albert said Monday. Many sections of the report already have been made public, despite a House ban on publication.

Under the reorganization, Bush will not become an "intelligence czar" but will be in a better position as director of central intelligence, the officials said.

An interagency panel headed by Bush will consist of fewer than five members representing the various intelligence agencies and will report directly to the National Security Council, headed by the president.

The oversight panel would receive direct reports from the inspectors general of the intelligence agencies, except the FBI, and would have the power to recommend to the attorney general that a particular activity merited disciplinary action or prosecution.

Oversight of the FBI would remain with the attorney general.

Other aspects of Ford's reorganization plan are said to include:

—A three-member White House panel to monitor possible improprieties by intelligence agencies;

—Specific prohibitions against assassination and mail opening along with new guidelines for covert operations and domestic intelligence gathering;

—Proposed criminal penalties for members of the executive branch who reveal intelligence secrets.

Kissinger says U.S. won't tolerate new aggression by Cuba

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told Venezuelan leaders today the United States will not tolerate any new foreign aggression by Cuba similar to the Angolan adventure.

Kissinger met with Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez and other officials at a two-hour working breakfast. Kissinger told reporters later the meeting "was very good and went very well."

He said Perez brought up the question of the intervention of Cuban soldiers in Angola, although "I didn't need much encouragement."

The secretary indicated he repeated the American position that Cuba will be opposed if it tries to repeat its Angolan adventure.

He said Venezuelan leaders presented no great argument on the Cuba question and added: "I think we see it pretty much alike."

Other topics during the breakfast meeting included the question of the Venezuelan exclusion from U.S. trade preferences. Kissinger told Perez that he should not hold his hopes too high for a quick end to the exclusion.

Kissinger's message for this first stop on a six-nation Latin American tour was that he strongly supports trade preferences for Venezuela. But he said he can do no more than hope that Congress will act favorably in the near future.

Venezuela and Ecuador were excluded from the preference system in 1974 because of the oil boycott by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). Although both nations are members of OPEC, neither participated in the boycott, but Congress refused to exempt them from the retaliatory action.

Kissinger was to outline the main theme of his tour — hemispheric friendship — later today in a speech to a group of American and Venezuelan scholars, politicians and businessmen. He planned to stress the importance the United States places on relations with Latin America.

The meeting, called the Second Symposium, is sponsored jointly by Tufts University of Medford, Mass., and Simon Bolivar University of Caracas.

A senior American official told reporters on Kissinger's flight from Washington to Caracas that the secretary of state would put particular emphasis on the role of the United States as it affects the growing desire of Latin America to join with other less industrialized nations in the Third World. He said Washington realizes Latin America seeks a destiny of its own but hopes it will reflect a special relationship with the United States.

Students urge easing of pot penalties

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The message from Iowa high school students is clear: They don't want to go to jail for smoking marijuana.

Students from across the state participating in a model legislature voted 73 to 22 Monday in favor of a bill to decriminalize possession of less than two ounces of marijuana.

"We are not saying that marijuana isn't bad," said Rhonda Simmons of Bloomfield, the bill's sponsor. "We don't advocate that everybody go out and smoke it. But with the law the way it is now, we are making criminals out of people who aren't really criminals."

Student debate on the marijuana issue centered on whether the substance is harmful.

Andrew Jones of Jesup said no study has substantiated that marijuana isn't harmful.

It's less harmful than either alcohol or tobacco, insisted Miss Simmons.

But Mark Crozier of Melcher said, "I can't vote for this bill because marijuana is sold by criminals and I would feel like I was voting for organized crime."

The students, chosen by educators and other local officials, voted 68 to 30 against raising the minimum legal drinking age from 18 to 19.

Woes mount for firm

Canada may kill Lockheed order

By The Associated Press

The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. is threatened with the loss of a $950-million Canadian order in addition to the $1.3-billion order Japan is reported to have canceled.

Canadian Defense Minister James Richardson said Monday that his government may call off plans to buy Orion patrol planes from the embattled American corporation unless the firm can overcome its financial troubles.

Richardson met with top Lockheed officials and said the company's new board chairman, Robert Haack, assured him a new financing arrangement could be expected later this year. But "the difficulty has not been resolved," Richardson said.

U.S. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats told Congress last week that Lockheed's estimated profits for the next three years are not sufficient to repay all of the $250 million in loans which the Nixon administration got Congress to guarantee in 1971. The balance of $195 million is due by the end of 1978, and the company has already obtained the only extension allowed it by the 1971 law.

Following Staats' report, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said the company was revising its profit projections and that the new figures would likely give a more favorable picture. But the next day the New York Times reported that the Japanese government had canceled plans to buy 100 Orion planes because of Lockheed's admission that it paid $12.6 million to Japanese intermediaries to get orders in Japan.

Canadian officials said their government's decision to buy the Lockheed planes depends partly on whether Japan buys them. They explained that the Canadian aircraft industry expects to get subcontracts as a result of the Japanese order that would total nearly as much as the government would pay for the Orions.

The Japanese parliament's investigation into the alleged payoffs in Japan continued for the second day today with denials from four officials of the aircraft company's Japanese agent that they handled or knew about any payoffs.

Hiro Hiyama, chairman of the Marubeni Corp., and three of his officials testified under oath that the payments they got from Lockheed were legtimate fees for services rendered as sales agents.

Hiyama also denied the testimony of former Lockheed president A.C. Kotchian to a U.S. Senate subcommittee that Hiyama suggested to Kotchan that Lockheed pay off Japanese officials to promote sales.

Hiyama said he was considering legal action against Kotchian for making a "false remark." Millionaire Kenji Osano, the key witness Monday at the hearing, also threatened legal action against Kotchian.

Hiyama made public a letter he said he received from Kotchian in which the American said he was "sorry that our testimonies have placed both you and your associates in such an embarrasing position when you were only assisting and helping us with our cause."

Italian Authorities issued arrest warrants today for a prominent attorney and a businesswoman in connection with the sale of aircraft to Italy by the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. The arrest orders followed the company's disclosure of payments to further foreign sales.

In Rome, Italian State Attorney Ilario Martella charged Ovidio Lefebvre and Maria Fava with corruption.

Lefebvre was mentioned in a 1970 Lockheed memorandum as an agent through whom the company funneled a $50,000 payment to an unnamed Italian defense minister. Mrs. Fava heads an Italian commercial firm allegedly involved in the sale of Lockheed planes.

Lockheed allegedly paid out $1.6 million to promote the sale of 14 C130 Hercules cargo planes to Italy in 1970.

Japanese denies payoffs but admits writing blank receipts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Tokyo businessman has denied making payoffs in Japan on behalf of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. but said he did provide the beleaguered aerospace giant with blank receipts through a personal holding company for payments made by others.

Shig Katayama, owner of the I-D Corp., named in Senate testimony as a Japanese agent for Lockheed, told reporters Monday that I-D did "provide some signed receipts in amounts and dates as requested by Lockheed and some signed in blank, all of which were to be used for Lockheed's internal accounting purposes in Switzerland."

Katayama said the action "was not an ordinary function of the I-D Corp.," which he described as a personal international holding company set up in the Cayman Islands to take advantage of nominal tax rates there.

"All of the services rendered by the I-D Corp. for Lockheed took place in Hong Kong," Katayama said, adding that "nominal consultants' fees for these services were also received in Hong Kong."

Katayama said a Lockheed official, whom he refused to name, had asked him to provide the receipts.

"They had some expenditures on their books that had to be covered by receipts," he said. "I think the receipts were requested after the fact, to cover outlays that had already been made by Lockheed. It was told to me that these receipts were going to Switzerland to keep the books in order. Books had to be balanced, and I did them a favor."

William G. Findley, partner in Arthur Young & Co., Lockheed's auditors, told a Senate subcommittee that I-D had provided receipts for disbursements which he was told were made to officials of the Japanese government and Japanese airlines. A.C. Kotchian, who resigned Friday as Lockheed's president in the wake of the payoff scandals, confirmed in Senate testimony that I-D had provided receipts but said the company never handled payoff money directly. Katayama said he has known Kotchian for about 10 years but refused to say if it was he who approached him on behalf of Lockheed.

Findley told the Senate investigators that Lockheed maintained a trust account in a Swiss bank which was later converted to cash. He said disbursements from the account appear to have been made "to some people in the airlines" but he did not identify the people or firms.

McVittie sees no way to settle Chino apartment complex dispute

Some Chino residents whose homes back up to a controversial proposed apartment complex were "misinformed" by the builder, Assemblyman William McVittie said Monday.

In fact, McVittie, D-65th Dist., apparently was impressed enough by homeowners' complaints that he promised to investigate legislation to alleviate some problems in the future.

He told members of Chinoans Acting for Responsible Environment (CARE) at a recent meeting that he would push for legislation to change the appeal period from 10 to 30 days on environmental impact statements.

The proposed apartments at Mountain Avenue and Riverside Drive were deemed by city officials to have no adverse affect on the environment. However, only a 10-day appeal period was allowed.

McVittie said he was convinced homeowners had legitimate claims regarding "misrepresentation" by American National Housing Corp., the developer who sold homes near the proposed apartments.

In many cases, prospective buyers were told that homes, rather than apartments, would be built at the southeast corner of Mountain and Riverside, said McVittie.

The assemblyman, who is a former Chino city attorney, indicated there was little he could do about the misinformation, however. He added that he did not feel the city itself was involved in any misstated facts.

A number of residents whose homes adjoin the empty lot where apartments are proposed have complained to city officials that they were not apprised of the impending development. Some said they were told the corner was presently zoned for apartments but that it would be rezoned for single family (R1) units.

Bruce Strickland, director of planning and engineering for American National, claims buyers were not misinformed.

"I feel we represented that corner as R3 (multiple family units), although possibly it should have been in our brochures," he said. Buyers were told the corner was zoned for apartments, "and that we were trying to change it to R1," he said.

"We did not say positively that we could change the zoning."

Strickland explained that American National only builds single family homes. The firm attempted to change the R3 zone but its efforts failed. The city said it would require a general plan amendment, "and they would study it for 36 to 40 months."

Because of the long period of time projected for the study, American National was forced to sell the 4.7-acre parcel for "economic reasons," said Strickland.

He explained that real estate agents "don't have the obligation to explain every detail" to home purchasers. "Some people don't even know what R3 is."

Jury visits closet 'cells'; Patty cries

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst returns to court today planning to resume her tale of terror at kidnapers' hands — a day after she and the jury in her trial for bank robbery toured the coffin-like closets where she was held captive in darkness.

Defense attorneys said Miss Hearst, if not too upset by her visit to the former Symbionese Liberation Army hideouts the day before, would be on the witness stand all day. She began relating her emotional saga last Friday.

The jury and Miss Hearst made a rainy-day excursion Monday to the suburban house where she was taken the night she was abducted, Feb. 4, 1974, and to the inner city apartment where she was smuggled in a garbage can 4½ weeks later.

The pale newspaper heiress broke into tears on seeing the apartment closet where she was kept blindfolded for 4½ weeks just before the April 15, 1974, bank robbery for which she is on trial, defense attorney Al Johnson said.

Neither chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey nor U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. took part in the tour. The participants were the jury, Miss Hearst, other attorneys and U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter. News reporters were not allowed inside with Miss Hearst at the location.

Johnson said the seven women and five men on the jury stepped into each closet while Miss Hearst stood by the door.

The judge was the only one who spoke to the jurors, pointing out dimensions, air vents and the like at Johnson's request.

Miss Hearst has testified that several of her taped communiques from the underground were made in the closets and that she was sexually assaulted in the cramped cubicles.

The jury must decide whether she was a willing participant in the bank robbery or a scared kidnap victim acting in fear of her life.

It was in the stucco house and the apartment that, she claims, the SLA kept her and taunted her with threats of death.

Miss Hearst appeared weak and her eyes were red-rimmed as she was hustled out of the Golden Gate Avenue apartment, which is in a four-story building in a predominantly black area.

Cost-cutting idea

State decides on request form for bilingual ballots

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and Secretary of State March Fong Eu have been besieged by protesting taxpayers who don't want the state to spend extra money on multilingual voting material.

Ms. Eu has decided to print "captioned" ballot pamphlets for the June 8 primary in English, Spanish and Chinese. If voters want pamphlets in Spanish or Chinese, they tear off and send in a postcard.

This costs the state less than $1 million, about $4 million less than it would be to blanket the state with multilingual pamphlets.

The federal Voting Rights Act requires minority language voting materials in counties that have 5 per cent of eligible voters who speak and read only Spanish.

The law applies to the entire state for the ballot pamphlet and to 39 counties for multilingual ballots — 38 in Spanish and English and one, San Francisco, in Spanish, Chinese and English.

A scanning of more than 80 letters to the governor or the secretary of state found only one letter that favored the additional spending.

The letters to Brown were turned over to Ms. Eu's office for answering. "We send them copies of a form letter which basically says, 'Blame the federal government,' " says Caren Daniels, Ms. Eu's press secretary.

Ms. Eu, in a Jan. 27 letter to U.S. Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., an author of the VRA extension, explained the $1-million state cost.

"But there is much more to complying with the VRA," she wrote Tunney, adding that counties, cities and districts face additional costs, too.

There will be hundreds of local elections, she said, and counties will be able to save money by adopting the state's captioning plan.

VRA supporters have threatened to sue the state if minorities do not receive materials in their language as readily as English-language voters.

Ms. Eu said the total cost to local and state government of $40 million might be conservative if election officials are ultimately required to blanket jurisdictions with multilingual ballots.

She said that her original estimate of 12 million eligible voters for the Presidential Primary June 8 has been revised to nine million.

"That is a sad fact for representative democracy, but a relief to elections officials who have been extremely concerned about costs," she said.

Many of the protesting letters say persons who don't understand English don't deserve citizenship, much less the voting franchise.

"If these foreigners can't speak and understand our English language," Ms. Frieda L. Weber of Calimesa wrote Gov. Brown, "they should not be allowed to vote."

"Let them study English for their privileges; they will become better Americans," wrote Ruth E. Solomon of San Diego.

Wrote Edward F. Sundberg of Watsonville: "Bilingual ballots — Poppycock! I spoke Swedish before I went to school. My wife is a Spanish immigrant. We had to learn English to survive."

One critic indicated that the ballot pamphlets aren't worth translating.

"I defy her (Ms. Eu) to explain the ones written in English," Mynna Dreyer of Hollywood wrote the governor, "because no one understands them anyway. At the last election, I had to phone two attorneys, and a professor at UCLA, and all the explanations differed."

Armida Negrete Torres, a registrar of voters in Sylmar, told Ms. Eu that he supported the additional spending to comply with the law. "I'm sure you are fed up to your ears with the issues of the minority .... But exclusion is not the answer," said the letter.

Basically, Ms. Daniels said, critics argue that citizens should understand English and that multilingual requirements waste money. On the other side, she said, VRA supporters say minority-language citizens pay taxes, too.

Reclamation plan to aid family farm backfires; loans proposed

FRESNO (AP) — In the wake of complaints that corporate farmers are reaping the bulk of benefits from a west San Joaquin Valley water district, Rep. John Krebs says Congress will be asked to provide loans to family farmers to buy land there.

The loan proposal for the Westlands Water District was announced Monday amid accusations that small investors have been blocked from buying land there. The district covers 600,000 acres in what is near desert without irrigation, but fertile farm land when water is supplied.

The U.S. Senate small business and interior committees began two days of hearings on charges that the intent of the reclamation law — to encourage family farming — is being subverted in Westlands as large corporations farm the holdings of individual investors.

U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., who with Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., conducted the hearing, said testimony received previously indicated the intent of the 1902 reclamation law has been "forgotten."

"Originally, the idea was that a system of small family farms would be created: that was the purpose of the acreage limitations," Nelson said. "Through administrative discretion and a lack of sufficiently clear Congressional intention, this goal has been virtually forgotten."

Large land holdings must be sold into parcels no larger than 160 acres under single ownership or 320 acres for a couple or the property cannot obtain federal water from San Luis Reservoir.

"The letter of the law is being complied with but not the spirit of the law," said Krebs, D-Calif., in announcing that he and Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., would introduce a family farm loan bill.

"If we cannot comply with the spirit of the law as well as the letter, we should not engage in this kind of thing," Krebs added.

Some small investors contended their efforts to buy Westlands property have been rebuffed already.

"The 'excess land' owners just do not want to sell their land and especially resent 'outsiders'," said real estate broker Robert E. DeGravelles Sr. of Tracy.

DeGravelles said he represents 303 people who offered $617.50 per acre for parcels among the 109,000 acres in Westlands owned by Southern Pacific Land Co. DeGravelles said they were turned down.

SP is trying to sell its "excess land" to people already farming it for the company, a spokesman said.

According to Smith, recent Westland sales indicate the land is worth $1,500 an acre.

Another real estate broker, Herschel Thompson of Fresno, maintained that many small investors simply can't afford to farm by themselves. He said at least $200,000 would be needed to farm in Westlands.

"This is the real barrier to farming in Westlands, not unavailability of farm land," Thompson said.

Deer poaching soars in state; game chief thinks economy cause

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Deer poaching is a well-organized crime that is running wild in California, the director of the state Fish and Game Department says.

Charles Fullerton said in an interview that poachers use radio communications to avoid his wardens. They eavesdropped so much on Fish and Game frequencies so much that the department has had to establish secret codes.

Fullerton said his department's battle against poaching is hindered by a lack of funds, a budget problem that has caused him to order a 25 per cent cutback in operations.

"We don't like to tell people that because they're driving us wild now as it is. We can't cover the area," Fullerton said.

"Just look at what the poachers have done. They've gone into citizen band radios so bad and just run us wild. They've got guys who watch our fellas completely.

"They're monitoring our radios with scanners. They know everything we do. We've had to go into code systems and not use our regular locations. They're that organized."

Fullerton said the economy may be a reason for the increase in illegal deer killing. "In some rural counties people can't afford to go out and buy hamburger. They're living on the deer."

He said there is a "tremendous amount of night hunting of deer all over the state. It's gotten so bad that wardens are using night aerial surveillance to hunt poachers who spotlight their targets.

"We don't know the number of deer being poached, but we can tell from our monthly reports how bad it is. There isn't one of our wardens who doesn't say the problem is really serious.

"We've initiated a program we haven't done before. We're using our airplanes at night to spot these people working, which we normally don't do because of the night-flying hazards."

Department spokesman Joe Sheehan said a Northern California warden captain reported "poaching is out of control at his end of the state."

Dramatic breast cancer treatment

BOSTON (AP) — Italian medical researchers have found a drug treatment they say can lead to drastic reductions in recurrence of disease in women after surgery for advanced breast cancer.

The New England Journal of Medicine, which published the study, said the treatment program could save hundreds of thousands of lives. The journal called the discovery "of monumental importance."

The study was conducted by Gianni Bonadonna of the National Cancer Institute of Italy and a team of associates.

In late 1974, the U.S. National Cancer Institute reported a clinical study had found that treatment with combinations of drugs, rather than one drug, produced longer survival times in women with advanced breast cancer.

Bonadonna, at about the same time the U.S. study was reported, said that early results from his then-incomplete study indicated a decreased recurrence rate among women receiving the drug combination.

The World Health Organization has called breast cancer the leading cause of death of middle-aged women in the Western countries.

A combination of three drugs was used to treat women who, during breast surgery, were found to have cancerous lymph nodes, the journal said. The drug treatment involved a combination of cyclophosphamide, methotrexate and fluorouracil (CMF).

The researchers said an earlier use of CMF "was recently reported to produce complete as well as partial remission in about 50 per cent of patients previously untreated with chemotherapy and to be superior to melphalan on a randomized comparison."

It said the same combination, with the addition of prednisone, had been "demonstrated in a uncontrolled series to have a high order of antitumor activity."

The researchers found that cancer eventually recurred in only 5 per cent of the women who had the treatment, compared with 24 per cent of those who did not, the report said.

While expressing strong optimism about the findings, the article by Bonadonna said the study lasted only 27 months and noted that the long-term effects of the chemotherapy program are unknown.

The medical journal said in an editorial the results are "nothing short of spectacular." It said the conclusions "can be accepted with confidence."

It added, "How many hundreds of thousands of lives can be improved, or indeed saved, by application of the present information in the coming decade?"

Bonadonna said despite technical advances in the past decades and other new approaches for treating breast cancer, "the over-all cure rate has remained essentially unchanged for at least 30 years."

The study involved 386 women, all of whom had had radical mastectomies — removal of the breast, lymph nodes and nearby muscles. Of that total, 207 underwent the drug treatment and 179 did not, the report said.

The chemotherapy started two to four weeks after surgery and continued for one year.

The researchers said they found several side effects during the therapy, including loss of hair, loss of appetite, conjunctivitis and an end to menses. But they said all were reversible in most patients except cessation of menses.

The article said the patients in the study generally tolerated the side effects well and "most working women continued to work during the entire period of chemotherapy."

Seventeen women refused to complete the series of treatments, the researchers said, "more for psychologic reasons than because they were severely affected" by side effects.

The journal editorial acknowledged the risks of the treatment, but added, "The risks of carcinogenesis (production of new cancer), fatal drug intoxication and other morbidity are certainly of much less hazard than the certain death that inexorably follows clinically evident metastatic cancer."

It said the study was based on an understanding that breast cancer is fundamentally not a local disease and the results cast further doubt on the usefulness of radiotherapy.

Bank in business under new name after seizure

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga prepared to open today as First Tennessee National Bank of Chattanooga, a day after the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency declared the bank insolvent, seized it and then sold it.

The bank's assets were purchased by First National Tennessee Corp., a Memphis, Tenn., bank holding company, for $16,251,000, about an hour after the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. seized it at the close of banking Monday.

"Depositors of the failed bank will automatically become depositors of the purchasing bank," the FDIC said.

Ronald Terry, chairman of First Tennessee National, said Hamilton National had deposit assets of about $450 million with about 120,000 depositors.

U.S. Comptroller James E. Smith had identified Hamilton National as one of seven national banks with total assets of $1.7 billion he had mentioned in congressional testimony two weeks ago as having serious problems. He did not identify it at the time and has not named any of the others.

The last national bank failure involved the American City Bank and Trust Co. of Milwaukee last October. The failure of the Franklin National Bank of Long Island, N.Y., in mid-1974 was the biggest bank failure in the nation's history.

Officials said the Chattanooga bank failed under a load of about $34 million in foreclosed loans and another $50 million in questionable loans sold to it by Hamilton Mortgage Co. of Atlanta.

"Hamilton-Chattanooga became insolvent because of real estate loans generated by a mortgage subsidiary of the bank's parent holding company," Smith said.

First Tennessee National, with assets of $1.4 billion, will work for restoration of the Chattanooga bank, Terry said. "We bring to Chattanooga the full resources of the largest banking institution in the state."

An army of 150 FDIC agents descended on the bank, its operations center and 22 branches in the Chattnooga area at 3:45 p.m. Monday after Smith ordered it closed. The action followed a two-month study of the bank's condition.

Officials of the bank, the largest in the crown of Hamilton Bancshares Inc., a bank holding company with assets of $1.1 billion, insisted they were not aware of the action until the federal agents arrived.

Meanwhile, negotiations were conducted late Monday for the sale of Hamilton Bank of Nashville, also owned by Hamilton Bancshares, to Nashville lawyer Frank A. Woods Jr.

"I think the worst is over and things are looking better," said George W. Hill, chief of the FDIC's division of liquidation.

Hill said the biggest losers in the Hamilton Bank failure would be the bank's stockholders.

"After we pay ourselves back," he said, "it is extremely rare in these cases for shareholders to get anything for their stocks."

The Securities and Exchange Commission last week suspended trading in Hamilton Bancshares for a 10-day period ending Feb. 22.

Postal service not as good as it used to be

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although mail service is improving, the Postal Service still does not provide as good service as the old Post Office Department once did, the General Accounting Office says.

"Over-all, service today is not as good as it was before postal reorganization — in terms of timeliness of delivery and in terms of the bundle of other services provided by the Postal Service," the congressional auditing agency said Monday.

The GAO said a significant cause of delay is mail sent to the wrong place by letter-sorting machines. The machines cut the Postal Service's costs and improve productivity, but the GAO said they miss about 7 per cent of the mail they handle.

The GAO said the amount of missent mail probably will increase as the Postal Service continues to increase the number of machines in use.

Postal Service officials frequently have cited statistics showing that mail delivery is faster than in the period immediately before the postal reorganization of July 1, 1971.

The GAO agreed but said the earlier period made a poor comparison because service then was especially bad due to "turbulence caused by the impending reorganization."

Instead, the GAO used the year ending June 30, 1969, for comparison and concluded that the average time to deliver first-class mail then was 1.5 days, compared with 1.65 days now.

"The mail is moving well although not as well as in 1969," GAO said.

"It's also, unfortunately, probably correct to state that more mail is being delayed for longer periods than was the case a few years ago. And the part that isn't moving well, despite being proportionately small, still adds up to several billion pieces in the course of a year."

In a 96-page report to be provided to every member of Congress, the GAO noted "widespread dissatisfaction with the quality of service."

The GAO said the volume of such complaints prompted individual members of Congress and oversight committees to request the agency to look into the quality of mail service.

Beanie bandit robs 7-Eleven market

A man wearing a beanie hat robbed the 7-Eleven Market at 5288 Francis Ave. in Chino of a small amount of cash and a six-pack of beer Monday night.

Market clerk Robb Armstrong told sheriff's deputies that a man walked into the store about 11:15 p.m. and placed a six-pack of beer on the counter. As Armstrong rung up the sale the man took out a dark colored handgun and ordered him to place the money from the cash register into a paper bag.

The man took the money and fled to a car parked outside. The car was driven by another man.

The gunman was described as a white, 19 to 24, 5 feet 9, of heavy build. He had dark hair and possibly a beard or mustache. He was wearing a brown beanie and a white T-shirt.

Three San Dimas men were in the West End Jail this morning after allegedly attacking and firing four shots at two men leaving the Bandbox Dance Hall 4280 Holt Blvd., in MONTCLAIR, Sunday.

Albert Boschma, 35, of 735 N. Gibbs St., Pomona and David Pfeifer, 32, of Costa Mesa, both escaped injury after four shots from a small caliber revolver richocheted off their car in an alley behind the dance hall.

Boschma and Pfeifer told officers they were accosted by three men as they were walking to their car. The two said they began arguing with the other men and got into a brief fight. Boschma said that one of the men pointed a gun at his head, but that when the man handed the gun to one of the other men, he and Pfeifer fled to their car. The men said they heard four shots coming from the direction of their assailants. The bullets glanced off their car.

Montclair Police Officer Robert Abshire, patroling in the area, reported he heard several shots being fired and saw a car containing the three suspects take off at a high rate of speed out of the alley. Abshire and other officers stopped the vehicle and placed the men under arrest.

Booked in West End Jail this morning for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon were Willard Jay Harrell, 21, and David Gaylord Thomas, 27, both of 116 Fifth St., San Dimas, and Roberty Wayne Gordon, 20, of 911 E. Cataract St., San Dimas.

Detectives of the WEST COVINA Police Department and Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department have asked for public assistance to solve a double murder which occurred in West Covina Jan. 29.

The two agencies are cooperating in the investigation.

The victims, Arnold F. Schoch, 68, and his secretary, Mary Quinones, 42, were discovered stabbed to death at 332 N. Meadow Drive, West Covina. They apparently had been working in a double garage which had been converted into an office at the Schoch residence. Schoch operated a macrame business.

Investigators have turned up few leads but did determine that the killer was injured in the double-slaying.

Anyone with information was asked to call the West Covina Police Department or the sheriff's homicide bureau in Los Angeles. All information will be held in confidence, a sheriff's spokesman said.

In ONTARIO, an apologetic gunman robbed the Rocket Service Station, 903 S. Euclid Ave. of a small amount of cash Monday afternoon.

Attendant Dale Hilburn told officers the gunman walked into the station office and asked whether he had any battery cables. Hilburn told the man there were no battery cables at the station.

Hilburn said the man then displayed a small handgun and produced a cloth bag. The gunman apologized about the robbery but claimed he "needed the money." Hilburn said he filled the cloth bag with money and the gunman fled.

The robber was described as a black, about 21, 6 feet 2 to 6 feet 3, 140 to 150 pounds.

Police said they want to question an Ontario man about the robbery, but no arrest warrant has been issued.

A California Youth Training School ward during a West Valley Municipal Court hearing testified that murder suspect Ruben Lerma, 18, of Pomona was with him on July 3 when a 21-year-old Chino man was shot to death in downtown Chino.

The ward, Patrick Gomez, 16, formerly of Pomona, had been sentenced to the California Youth Authority after pleading guilty to second degree murder charges in the slaying. He testified that he, Lerma, and two other persons went into Chino the evening of July 3 armed with shotguns and a rifle.

Lerma was arrested by Chino police in July in connectioln with the shotgun slaying of Albert Martinez, 21, of Chino and the wounding of two other Chino youths in the area of Second and C Streets in Chino.

The defendant, a juvenile at the time of his arrest, was held in Los Angeles County on other charges while Gomez, his older brother Michael Lerma, 19, and another youth all pleaded guilty or were found guilty of Martinez' death. The San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office filed murder charges against the defendant in late November after juvenile authorities certified him as an adult in the case.

During the preliminary hearing that continues today, Gomez testified that the defendant, the defendant's brother, and another youth had obtained the weapons from a home behind the Lerma residence.

Chino girl scores

Teri Fritts, 10, of Chino has been honored by having her question selected for publication today in the Johnny Wonder feature in the Progress-Bulletin.

Miss Fritts, of 13234 17th St., will receive a 1976 World Almanac for her question, "Can a Snake Be Charmed with Music?"

Assist from congressman helps applicants

Possible abuses in GSA hiring probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — During the eight months he was trying to find work with the General Services Administration, the applicant was told repeatedly that no openings existed. But the man was hired within weeks after a congressman wrote to the head of the agency.

The personnel file of another individual at the GSA contained an evaluation that she had no chance of being promoted to the next highest Civil Service grade and that she was performing below standards for her current rating. But her file also contained references to congressional interest in her career and instead of one grade she was promoted two.

Both cases represent the kind of episodes now being studied by a special U.S. Civil Service Commission investigator looking for evidence of hiring abuses.

These government workers are among the dozens who an earlier investigator discovered had been referred for government jobs with the GSA by congresssmen and senators and whose files show special handling by GSA personnel officers. The agency handles the government's house-keeping.

The previous investigator, Ben Joseph, then was a lawyer for the U.S. Civil Service Commission and now is a special prosecutor for the Pennsylvania Justice Department.

It is within the law for congressmen and senators to write references for their constituents who apply for government jobs. However, the law requires government officials to base their hiring and promotion decisions solely on the basis of merit.

When Joseph's findings were not acted on after his superiors determined there was no "basis on which to make a case," he quit.

But now the 1973 Joseph investigation has been dusted off for one more look. The new probe is headed by Milton I. Sharon, a retired Philadelphia regional director for the Civil Service Commission. His report may be completed sometime next month, a spokesman for the commission says,

Many of the same personnel files searched by Joseph were obtained under provisions of the Freedom of Information Act from the Civil Service Commission. None contain evidence of demands by congressmen that favorites be hired, but almost all include documentation of special handling of congressional referrals.

When Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., wrote on behalf of a candidate, a GSA personnel officer wrote, "We should do it if at all possible." There's no sign Pastore asked for special handling, but he got it.

When Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., wrote, "I am extremely interested in assisting him in his endeavor to join the General Services Administration," the applicant's file was given "red priority tags," a high-priority category.

Former Rep. Fred Schwengel of Iowa was the congressman who wrote on behalf of the applicant turned down over eight months in his search for government work. In pushing for his candidate, Schwengel finally wrote directly to former GSA Adminstrator Robert Kunzig that "this job is important and can be very helpful to me and other public officials in Iowa, especially those who think along our lines."

Kunzig replied several weeks later that an opening had developed and it was given to the man referred by Schwengel.

In another case found in the files, the husband of a woman hired by a Senate committee was offered a job in the GSA over 34 other applicants, "at least half of whom were better qualified," according to an evaluation.

Because of senatorial interest in the case, a GSA personnel official asked for a "report to me every three days" until the individual was hired, according to the files.

Another applicant was assigned "must" priority and documents in his file discuss the "very strong interest on the part of Sen. Henry Jackson..." But nothing in the file indicates that Jackson, D-Wash., asked for the special attention.

These, and countless other cases involving other congressmen and senators have been known to Rep. David N. Henderson, D-N.C., chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, but have not been included as part of the public hearings held by that committee on hiring abuses in the Civil Service. Those hearings concentrated last year mainly on bureaucratic handling of referrals from the White House under former President Richard M. Nixon. Few names of congressmen or senators were mentioned.

Obituaries

Letha Tolleson

Mrs. Letha Jane Tolleson, wife of George W. Tolleson of 867 E. 11th St., Upland, died Sunday morning in an Upland convalescent hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Tolleson was born Feb. 1, 1895 in Waldron, Ark. She came to Ontario 25 years ago from Norman, Okla.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Rita Wing of Oklahoma City; two sons, Basil Smith of Tulsa, Okla., and Ray Smith of Cupertino; three step-daughters, Mrs. May Hunt of Downey, Mrs. Shirley Steers and Mrs. Estella Jaquess, both of Ontario; two step-sons, Robert and Paul Tolleson, both of Ontario; four sisters, Mrs. Dovie Wood of San Diego, Mrs. Hettie Foxehand of Tulsa, Mrs. Betty Kendrick of Norman, Okla., and Mrs. Hattie Crow of Wilburton, Okla.; a brother, Delton Smith of Heavener, Okla.; 18 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Burial will be made in Pomona Cemetery.

Mary Robinson

Mrs. Mary A. Robinson of 2351 S. Towne Ave., Pomona, died Sunday morning in a local convalescent home.

Mrs. Robinson was born July 25, 1887 in Michigan. She had resided in Chino for 25 years prior to coming to the convalescent hospital in August 1975. Mrs. Robinson was a member of the Faith Missionary Church, Pomona.

Surviving are two sons, William G. of Chino and Homer E. of Santa Paula; a brother George Meier of Toledo, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. Louise Chandler of Lake Elsinore; nine grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. A son, Orville M., died in December 1974.

A memorial service will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Faith Missionary Church. The Rev. Roy Ramseyer and the Rev. Roy Adams will officiate. Services will conclude in the chapel. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Friends who wish may make memorial contributions to the Memorial Fund at the Faith Missionary Church, 1173 San Bernardino Ave., Pomona, 91767.

Nora Van Shaw

Mrs. Nora Van Shaw of 2013 Las Vegas St., Pomona, died Sunday evening in a local convalescent center following a brief illness.

Mrs. Van Shaw was born March 26, 1888 in Texas. She came to California in 1929 from Texas and lived in Redondo Beach. She moved to Pomona 15 years ago from San Bernardino.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Cleo Morgan of Pomona and Mrs. Lucille Webb of Los Angeles; two grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 11 a.m. in Pomona Mausoleum. The Rev. Dorsey Allen, pastor, of the Trinity United Methodist Church, Pomona, will officiate. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

INDICTED BY GRAND JURY — Mike Borrelli, a Denver restaurant owner, center, is shown at the time of his arrest Feb. 16 on charges of murder, conspiracy and criminal solicitation. He is a former New York City policeman. A New York detective was also arrested as an alleged hit man in the murder of Denver businessman and gambler Hal Levine, 46.

Arrested on murder charge

Detective faces indictment

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City Det. Robert Davis appears in State Supreme Court today in connection with a fugitive warrant charging him with the murder of a Denver businessman-gambler.

Davis, arrested Saturday night in his Harlem squad room, has refused to go to Colorado voluntarily. Extradition proceedings are expected to be followed if a Colorado grand jury indicts him this week in connection with the slaying of Hal Levine, 46, in Denver last Sept 7.

New York Special Prosecutor Maurice Nadjari's office came into the case because he has jurisdiction over crimes charged against members of the criminal justice system including police.

Joel Cohen, a spokesman for Nadjari, said his office is probing whether other New York City policemen had engaged in unlawful activities with Michael Borrelli when he was a New York City detective.

Borrelli, 45, now retired, is a Denver businessman and is held in $75,000 bond there in connection with the Levine murder.

Levine had taken out a $5.2 million insurance policy of which Borrelli was one of the beneficiaries, Cohen said. Cohen said the Colorado Organized Crime Strike Force was investigating that policy issued by two Denver men he identified as Barry Minardi and William Stubbs.

The Associated Press carried on Sunday a report from a news conference held by Cohen and Det. Richard Rennick of Denver, assigned to the Colorado strike force, in which the phrase "picked up" was erroneously used during a reference to all the men involved in the investigation in Colorado.

Minardi and Stubbs were not picked up, and no charges have been filed against them.

Israeli students write Brezhnev

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli students opened a "Write-to-Brezhnev" campaign today and urged the public to complain directly to the Soviet Communist party chief about the plight of Russian Jews.

Students at Bar Ilan University published Leonid I. Brezhnev's Moscow home address in Israeli newspapers as 26 Kutuzovsky Prospekt, Moscow, U.S.S.R. Their chairman stated:

"Even if the mail never reaches Brezhnev himself, the fact that his security men will have to get rid of piles of letters will have a valuable effect."

The mail campaign, to urge the free emigration of Russian Jews, was timed to coincide with the current conference on Soviet Jewry in Brussels.

A Russian emigrant arriving in Israel said Jewish activists in Moscow planned to defy Soviet authority by demonstrating outside Communist party head-quarters in support of the conference.

What's going on around here

L. P. STUDENT FAIR — Students and teachers from the Hacienda La Puente School District will hold an EDU-Fair Thursday through Saturday at Puente Hills Mall.

It will feature a variety of displays demonstrations and performances by children and adult students. Representatives from 35 district schools and departments will participate.

The district held its first EDU-Fair last year by filling the mall with 90 booths and providing 45 stage performances.

This year performances and demonstrations of classroom activities will be presented at three locations on the lower level. Choral groups will perform. A school information booth will be situated near the center stage.

DANCE AT SACRED HEART — The Association of Mexican American Educators of Pomona will sponsor a scholarship dance Saturday at Sacred Heart Hall, 1215 S. Hamilton Blvd.

Hours of the dance will be from 6 to 10 p.m. Community support is invited.

Presale tickets are $2.50. At the door they will be $3.

Tickets may be purchased from Graciela Romo at Fremont Junior High School, 623-5251.

CHAFFEY ALUMNI SESSION — Alumni of Chaffey High School in Ontario are invited to the annual Chaffey Alumni Association meeting which will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Arbor Restaurant in Upland.

Association president Sam Crowe said this will be an informal social occasion. New officers for next year will be announced.

Any Chaffey graduate may join the association. Dues are $3 per person or $5 per couple.

The association has ordered a plaque for the campus tiger statue, the work of Betty Davenport Ford, a Chaffey graduate.

Parents and Teachers

ALLISON SCHOOL PTA in Pomona will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The program will include the annual honorary life service award presentation and a spelling bee.

YORBA ELEMENTARY School PTA will present its annual spelling bee Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pomona school's multipurpose room.

Doug MacKenzie, chairman of the mentally gifted minor program, will be the spelling master for the evening. Primary grade teachers will be official judges as 26 top spelling students, representing fourth, fifth and sixth grades, compete for spelling honors.

Ribbons will be award first, second and third place winners for each grade level. These winners will then advance to the championship competition.

The SAN DIMAS HIGH School Band and Drill Boosters will present the "Heritage Ball" on Saturday at the Community Building in San Dimas.

The social hour will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the buffet dinner will be served at 8:30 p.m. Music for the event will be furnished by the San Dimas High Stage Band under the direction of Phil Wyatt. Dancing will continue until 1 a.m.

The drill team, directed by Beverly Woods, will also perform.

Wayne Booth, president of the Boosters, reports that all proceeds will go to help pay off the balance owed on the band uniforms.

Sue Lemel is chairman of the dance committee. Tickets are $5 per person and may be purchased at the door. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Lemel, 599-1045; Ann Booth, (213) 331-6982; or Fay Zeigler, (213) 332-5087.

The February unit meeting of the SERRANO JUNIOR High School PTA will be held Feb. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Montclair school's multi-purpose room.

The meeting will feature the annual Founder's Day program in celebration of the birthday of PTA. The honorary service award will be presented and new officers will be elected.

The program will include a tumbling demonstration by the coed physical education department, a performance by the Serrano cheerleaders and a presentation by the homemaking department.

Does Lindora think Losing Weight is easy?

It is not a simple task for a patient to reach and maintain "lean weight" for life. First the patient must have an honest desire to cure his problem then accept professional guidance from trained Medical Doctors.

Lindora's unique 10-week treatment and training program will teach patients how to reach and maintain their "lean weight" for life. A safe and practical plan, with proper nutritional diet, and continual emotional support. New audio and sub-liminal visual aids are used to motivate the patient. The entire program is under the strict supervision of Medical Doctors, specialists in Bariatric Medicine.

Lindora Clinics are owned and administered by Medical Doctors that restrict their practice to Bariatrics. ALL Clinic Personnel are licensed by the State of California

Rich's Western zone office is at 435 W. First St., Claremont.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 17, the 48th day of 1976. There are 318 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1801, the U.S. House of Representatives broke an electoral tie between Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr and elected Jefferson President.

In 1621, Miles Standish was made military captain of the Pilgrim colony at Plymouth, Mass.

In 1934, King Albert I of Belgium was killed while mountain climbing near Namur, Belgium.

In 1964, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that congressional districts in each state must be roughly equal in population.

Ten years ago: Vice President Hubert Humphrey said in New Delhi that the U.S. would provide India a $100 million loan to aid that country's faltering economy.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon said he would put no limit on the use of American air power in Indochina except to ban tactical nuclear weapons.

One year ago: Government forces in Cambodia abandoned efforts to reopen the Mekong River. The river was under Communist control, cutting off supplies to the capital of Phnom Penh.

Today's birthdays: Singer Marian Anderson is 74 years old. Mrs. Clifton Daniel — the former Margaret Truman — is 52.

Thought for today: From the sublime to the ridiculous there is only one step — Napoleon Bonaparte, 1769-1821.

Tourists again jam Mt. Baldy

More than 10,000 Southland visitors came to the snow Monday, causing the worst traffic jam of the season in the Mt. Baldy area.

Mt. Baldy Road had to be closed for several hours Monday afternoon to hold back traffic and to allow emergency vehicles to reach distressed motorists to get through.

It was a repeat, but worse, of jams Sunday when the road also had to be closed. U.S. Forestry officials estimated that more than 20,000 persons drove to the Baldy winterland during the three-day weekend.

Not all of them got to play, though. Waits of 1½ hours for the ski lifts were not uncommon. And many others who had come just to frolic in the snow found there was no parking space. Bumper to bumper traffic overheated radiators and caused a large number of vehicles to stall.

One vehicle accident resulting in injuries was reported. Fourteen other injuries were handled by the Red Cross station near Baldy Village.

Forest Ranger Gene Taliferro said those accidents were caused by snowplay. He said a number of adults and children playing in the snow slipped and fell and skidded and rolled down some of the slicker slopes suffering severe neck and back injuries.

Conditions returned to normal Monday night and the Snow Crest Lodge reported good skiing conditions this morning. The weather report calls for mostly fair skies and occasional clouds.

In the one vehicle accident, a Brea woman suffered minor injuries when one small pickup struck another pickup which was stopped with a flat tire on Mt. Baldy Road near Shinn Road.

Deborah Hardwick, 17, was treated at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland and later released.

She was a passenger in a pickup driven by James O'Malley, 23, of Fullerton. O'Malley was driving south on Mt. Baldy Road when he came upon the truck which was partly pulled off the roadway with a flat tire, said highway patrolmen.

The other pickup was driven by Jose Castillo, 17, of Los Angeles. He wasn't hurt.

Small car catches fire following two crashes

A Riverside man's small car burst into flames Monday when it was struck by a truck after being disabled moments before by a collision with another vehicle in Pomona.

The accident occurred on the Corona Expressway at Dudley Street at 12:45 a.m. The small car, a 1974 model, was a total loss.

Its owner, Robert A. Veatch, 32, said his car was struck by a vehicle entering the expressway from Dudley Street. Veatch said he could not restart his engine.

Moments later, Veatch's car was hit broadside by a trailer-truck as Veatch tried unsuccessfully to flag down the driver. In that crash, the small car burst into flames.

Veatch suffered hand cuts in the first accident, but declined medical attention. The truck driver, Robert B. Scholz, 41, Alhambra, also was hurt slightly and declined treatment.

Seven judges assigned here seek re-election

Seven judges assigned to be to the Pomona courts will seek re-election in June, but only two are opposed.

Pomona Superior Court judges who have filed their intention with the Registrar of Voters Office to run are Supervising Judge Paul W. Egley and Francis J. Garvey, Philip F. Jones, Robert M. Takasugi and Sam Cianchetti.

Of the five, only Takasugi and Cianchetti are opposed. Takasugi, running for Office No. 40, is opposed by Nathan Axel of Burbank; S.S. Schwartz, Beverly Hills; John H. Wilbur, Downey; Mario P. Gonzalez, Montebello; and David J. Aisenson, Granada Hills.

Cianchetti, running for Office No. 50, is opposed by Owen A. Silverman of Rancho Palos Verdes.

Both Takasugi and Cianchetti recently were appointed to the Superior Court bench by Gov. Brown. Both were municipal court judges.

Two Pomona Municipal Court judges also will run unopposed. They are James H. Piatt and Thomas F. Nuss.

La Verne mulls park proposals

A proposal to close down a one-block segment of B Street north of the Southern Pacific Railroad and turn it into a small park will be considered tonight by the La Verne City Council.

The street now dead ends at the railroad tracks and the council would just as soon give it back to property holders so it can yield some taxes.

But Mexican-American youths who use the block to meet there would rather see it turned into a park.

The council also will hear the annual report of the city's Fire Department and consider several zone change requests at a meeting that starts at 7:30.

The meeting is ordinarily held on Monday nights. It was reset for Tuesday because of the observance of George Washington's birthday.

THE WINNER Austin Lamb shows off the replica of a 1915 Model-T Ford pickup he built. He won a first place trophy with the pickup in the Custom Motorcycle and Car Show in San Bernardino at the National Orange Show. He was a drag racer until his wife persuaded him to quit.

Ex-drag racer spins his wheels on Model T, finishes as a winner

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

A Claremont man who gave up drag racing competition at his wife's urging has won a trophy, not for racing, but for building a replica of a 1915 Model-T Ford pickup.

While his wife Phyllis and children watched proudly, Austin Lamb of 161 Annapolis Drive Sunday accepted the first-place trophy for the best show roadster, pickup-custom class, at the Custom Motorcycle and Car Show at the National Orange Show grounds in San Bernardino.

Son Austin, 8, and daughter Angel, 2, participated in the family excitement, too.

Lamb last competed in a race in the 1975 Winternationals. His wife wanted him to quit racing and encouraged him to build the replica.

Into the Model-T went the 500-horsepower Boss 302 Ford engine which Lamb had used in a 1960 Falcon station wagon he raced at the Winternationals.

Friends and neighbors in February 1975 heard of Lamb's plans to build a car, and each contributed his talent.

The 1915-style radiator was built by Park Avenue Radiator. The radiator shell was put on by Pomona Sheet Metal.

A neighbor carpenter helped Lamb with the woodwork which went into the cab after Lamb bought a Fiberglas shell body. High Grade Plating completed the chrome trim.

Jerry Troha of Pomona built the frame. The painting and upholstery were added by Don Tiny of Ontario.

Advance Transmission of Ontario built the appropriate parts.

Mrs. Lamb's four brothers also lent their energy on evenings and weekends.

With so much help, Lamb was able to hit the road with his new pickup in just four months. He and the family have driven to El Mirage in the Victorville area and to the Queen Mary at Long Beach.

Lamb drives the trophy winner to work every day at Pomona Valley Distributors where he is a truck driver. The engine has been "detuned" because it is too strong for such a light vehicle.

Lamb estimates that the Model-T is worth about $12,000.

His wife pointed out that Monday he added the wind wings, and will add other flourishes as he is inspired. "He's even gold anodized the wheels," she said.

What is Lamb's next project?

"Hopefully a few projects around the house," Mrs. Lamb suggested.

EXERCISING THE MIND If these youths appear to be explaining a scientific theory to college instructor Catherine Fowlie, it is probably so because they are mentally gifted minors. The children, 200 of them, will return to Mt. San Antonio College next month for enrichment. Shown here are Samantha Ganely, Diamond Bar, left, Marcelino Ford-Livine, Pomona, and Dan Osgood, Valinda.

Mentally gifted program

Move over, collegians! here come the little guys, gals

The mighty midgets of the valley are going back to Mt. San Antonio College next month to make the most of their mental capacities.

They don't look like college students, but 200 mentally gifted minors now attending public school classes throughout the district, are taking enrichment work on the campus in some of the toughest classes.

The completed 10 weeks last fall, and will be registering for the spring term until Feb. 29. More than two dozen classes will be offered to them starting March 15.

All of the students are meeting challenges beyond their normal educational experiences in science courses, arts and crafts, communications, entomology, photography and a dozen other subjects.

The classes are held in late afternoon. Parents who wish to enroll their children in the enrichment program may telephone Mrs. Ellen Wyse, 598-2647, or Mrs. Diane Manson, 599-3390. Both represent the Pomona Valley Gifted Children's Association.

The classes are one hour long.

Valley briefs

Upland candidates will bow

The nine candidates for city offices in Upland will appear at the Upland Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday at 7:30 a.m. at The Arbor restaurant, Upland.

Brief talks will be presented by the two candidates for mayor, the incumbent Abner Haldeman and Councilman George Gibson.

Also present will be the candidates for Gibson's seat on the council, Jerry Morris, Mrs. Isabel Contreras, Howard McGarry and William L. Bottin.

Others to be introduced are City Clerk Doreen Carpenter and Mrs. Mary Lucas, both candidates for the city clerk's post, and Robert A. Thrall, who is unopposed for re-election as city treasurer.

Reservations for the breakfast meeting may be made at the Upland Chamber of Commerce office.

Euclid work proposed

The Ontario City Council tonight will be asked to consider improvements on Euclid Avenue median at both Fourth and G streets.

The proposed project includes construction of left turn lanes, channelizing left turn and through traffic and installing new signals and controllers at both intersections.

Allen D. Morrison, city engineer, reports federal aid grant funds would contribute $99,600 toward the cost, leaving $20,400 to be paid from local funds. The California Department of Transportation and city would each pay one half the cost since Euclid is a state highway, he reported.

In another item, the council will conduct a public hearing to consider an appeal by Dwight Mize of the Planning Commission's denial of an application to rezone from agriculture to multiple family use property on the west side of Cypress Avenue between Phillips Street and Mission Boulevard.

Pomona cyclist is injured

A Pomona youth was injured Monday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding hit the side of a car at India Hill Boulevard south of San Jose Avenue in Claremont police reported.

Hilton C. Burnett, 16, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was released after treatment of minor injuries.

Police said Burnett was riding his bike on the sidewalk when Charles M. Wheeler, 19, Citrus Heights, began turning into a driveway and they collided.

Auto council to convene

Inland Empire, Unit 14, of the Automotive Service Council of California will meet today at 7 p.m. for a dinner meeting at the Upland Inn.

Bill Saville, industrial safety division representative for R.M. Wadsworth Corp., will speak on "What to Expect when OSHA Comes to Call."

Saville has spent the last six years working in the safety field for engineering companies, including assignments in Alaska and California.

Lawyer, defend thyself

Doctors, as everyone who reads the newspapers knows, have become the favorite targets of malpractice suits. The resulting skyrocketing of medical malpractice insurance has reached the proportions of a national crisis.

But now lawyers, who have had something to do with making Americans possibly the most lawsuit-prone people in the world, are experiencing a "quiet crisis" of their own, reports the Wall Street Journal.

It is a quiet crisis because legal malpractice is still pretty much swaddled in secrecy, with few cases ever seeing the light of a courtroom. Most are discreetly settled by insurers.

Today, however, people are suing their attorneys almost twice as often as they were only a few years ago, and the cost of settlement has also roughly doubled. Like the doctors, the lawyers are beginning to worry that insurers may be driven out of the legal malpractice market altogether.

Reasons for this development, besides an apparent decline in public esteem for or awe of professionals in general, include the fact that recent court rulings have weakened some of the obstacles to legal malpractice suits.

Courts have ruled, for example, that the statute of limitations on legal malpractice starts from the time the malpractice is discovered by the client. Thus an attorney who, say, botched a will or contract through an error 20 years ago can be sued, even as a surgeon who left a sponge inside a patient's abdomen can be held accountable long after the event.

Lawyers should file the above under "H" — for hoist with their own petard.

Misuse of power

Dear Editor:

Forty-four federal judges filed a suit against the government because inflation has diminished the buying power of their salaries 34% since 1969.

They should be reminded that crime has increased 38% between 1969-1974 and an average of 65% of the persons arrested were repeated offenders.

This situation is probably the result of a very inefficient criminal justice system, of which, judges are the leaders. If they don't like the pay they should quit. If the crime rate does not start to decrease soon they should be fired.

Also, take note that this case involves federal judges who hired an ex U.S. Supreme Court judge to represent them in the Supreme Court.

This whole mess is a prime example of arrogance and misuse of power. It makes Watergate seem like a Halloween prank. — James N. McIntyre, Fontana.

School holidays

Dear Editor:

I was certainly irked when I read that the Pomona school board was considering a suggestion for special school holidays honoring special groups. You would think that with all the things they have to do they would devote all their time to bettering our school system and hope for much better suggestions from fellow board members.

But if they are going to consider special days then I want to put in a vote for my heritage — Polish — and celebrate Casimir Pulaski Day in honor of the great Polish patriot who died fighting for freedom.

And I'm sure the Jewish people would want one of their holidays celebrated and we could have a Queen's Holiday for the English, and for all the Presidents and officials of the U.S. government who were assassinated we could have Assassination Day set aside. It could go on and on and soon the students would have to have a year round school to make up the days.

I must say that the letter published from Glenn Dellebach suggesting a National Heritage Day does make sense, especially in this bicentennial year. It would also be a good thought for our school board to write a letter to Washington to try to get this as a national holiday, not just something for Pomona.

The Pomona Unified School District is made up of some many different nationalities and races, let's not divide it, but unite it. — Lorraine Hildebrand, Diamond Bar.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Some of our school authorities are advocating the addition of a couple of minority race holidays to next year's school calendar. Proposed are the Cinco de Mayo and Martin Luther King's birthday. — Now there's an idea that is getting a rousing vote of approval from Pomona's reluctant young scholars. Many of them are further contending that the idea should be adopted without any racial discrimination.

"Let's add Chinese New Years, St. Patrick's Day, Bastille Day, Kosciusko's birthday, and the anniversary of the invention of the Finnish sauna just for starters," they suggest. "In time, with all the developing nations there are in the world today, we could easily find enough holidays to cover every single day of the school year."

Loopholes not just for rich

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — As is usual every four years, the bulk of the presidential candidates is following the advice of Calvin Coolidge: "You can get a lot of votes by telling people their problems are not their own fault." Addressing themselves to the problem of family budgets, most of the candidates are saying the fault is that of "tax loopholes," of rich people who have conspired during the decades to legally escape taxes, blah-blah, thereby shifting greater burdens, yak-yak, to the shoulders of the Average American.

Sounds good but ain't true.

In speeches, articles and books executed over the past few years, economist Roger Freeman has tried to lay to rest the largely mythical elements of the tax loophole conspiracy. The fact he has been absolutely unsuccessful shouldn't take away from the merits of his work. Tax loopholes, he says convincingly, benefit the non-rich far more than the rich and for those who care about exploring the dusty figures of the Internal Revenue Service, you could look it up.

At the outset, Freeman explains, people should understand that "tax loopholes" is a phrase describing that portion of private income which for one reason or another is not taxed. The sum is enormous, more than half the total of all personal income. Freeman says figures for 1972 indicate that the American public reported a total income of $945 billion, of which $500 billion was untaxed. If "income that is not defined as income" is added to the figure, Freeman says the untaxed total for 1972 was $563 billion, or 60 per cent of the whole.

Undeniably, some of the untaxed money benefitted the detested wealthy. The greedy fat cats who realize riches through capital gains, as every politician tells us, are taxed on profits at a rate half that of what Mr. and Mrs. Weekly Paycheck have to fork over on their measley earnings. Democratic contender Fred Harris says this kind of "welfare for the rich" costs the underdogs more than $90 billion a year.

Freeman doesn't quibble, but argues that tax loopholes represent welfare for everyone. He says $155 billion of the 1972 untaxed income, the biggest tax loophole of all, was made up by way of the personal exemption deduction, the $750 per family dependent subtraction which obviously benefits the unrich more than the rich if only because there are so many more of the former than there are of the latter.

Then too, says Freeman, there was $97 billion worth of personal income not taxed in 1972 because of itemized deductions. And here again, the poor benefitted more than the well-to-do. Freeman says that in terms of adjusted gross incomes (AGI), itemized deductions equaled 55 per cent of reported income for tax filers earning $5,000 or less, but 22 per cent of that of the income class of $100,000 or more.

As a final major example of his thesis, Freeman cites the $93 billion of untaxed earnings that in 1972 was formed by income from social benefits: social security, unemployment compensation, veterans benefits, the overwhelmingly portion of it benefitting the unwealthy. (From here Freeman gets into smaller items of untaxed income, such as the $10 billion in 1972 for the 60 per cent of Americans who live in their own homes and utilize mortgage interest tax loopholes).

In all, Freeman concludes that about 90 per cent of federally untaxed earnings are held by Americans of moderate or skimpy incomes. He points out that of 16.7 million tax returns in 1972 that reported no taxable income, 92 per cent were in the $5,000 or less AGI bracket. As for the rich chaps, they benefit too, certainly, but Freeman is convinced they also uphold a fair share of the tax burden. In 1972, he says, there were 1,030 returns with an AGI of $1 million or more, and they paid (on the average) a whopping $1,019,577 each to the IRS.

All of this smacks of heresy, of course. Mental manipulations. Statistical acrobatics. Hell, every note seeking politico knows that tax laws benefit only the rich. And how do they know? Because, as economist Freeman says, candidates are aware that four of five voting wage earners who file income tax returns earn less than $15,000 a year.

Wrong—even for right reasons

"Saving the Queen," a first novel by journalist, editor and eloquent conservative spokesman William L. Buckley, deals with the leaking of atom bomb secrets to the Russians back in the 1950s.

At one point, the hero, a CIA agent, muses that "We (the good guys) might in secure conscience lie and steal in order to secure the escape of human beings from misery and death; Stalin has no right to lie and steal in order to bring misery and death to others."

The operative word, it should be noted, is "might." And as long as it is left in the realm of fiction, it is the age-old philosophical question of the end justifying the means restated in entertaining form.

Citing the passage in an adulatory view, however, columnist Holmes Alexander says that "here Buckley has given us the right retort to the moral shock we feel when the CIA is caught doing what is wrong and illegal. After all, motives do count. There is a difference between actions taken to enslave people and actions taken to provide and guard their freedom."

Unfortunately, there is little in the recent revelations about the CIA to suggest that anything the intelligence agency has been caught doing has enhanced anybody's freedom.

But even accepting the argument that evil may sometimes legitimately be used to serve a higher good — that the United States might, for example, "in secure conscience" plot the assassinations of leaders of foreign countries with whom we are not at war — the great difficulty with this kind of moral pretentiousness is that anybody can employ it, including a dedicated Communist.

Buckley's hero's statement, or Holme's reading of it, could just as easily justify the excesses of the antiwar activists in the 1960s who, in their own eyes at least, burned draft board office files or stole papers from the Pentagon "in secure conscience."

If Americans should ever learn to overcome their moral shock at wrong and illegal actions, by whomever committed and from whatever motives, we will have gone a long way towards becoming indistinguishable from our enemies.

MPLA wants to talk with U.S.

WASHINGTON — The victorious communist-backed forces in Angola have sent a surprising secret message to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, requesting talks with the United States.

In the appeal to Kissinger, the pro-Soviet MPLA leaders made the astonishing promise that they would ask Cuban and Soviet troops to leave Angola once the civil war is over.

The urgent message to Kissinger was delivered to the State Department by Mark Moran, foreign policy adviser to Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif. Moran spent eight days in the Angolan capital of Luanda talking with top MPLA leaders.

Both Tunney and Moran are cautious about the unusual communication. Although the message is quite specific, they recognize it could be an exercise in propoganda rather than genuine diplomacy.

The State Department is also skeptical. A rapprochement with the MPLA, of course, would be an admission that the past U.S. policy toward Angola was wrong. Kissinger and Company, therefore, may be merely trying to hedge their past mistakes.

Tunney feels the MPLA's offer of a detente at least is worth exploring, even if it should lead nowhere.

The four-page message to Kissinger was delivered in the form of an aide memoire written by Moran, setting forth his questions and the MPLA's answers. These are not the answers of a spokesman who can later be repudiated. They were given to Moran directly by MPLA's Prime Minister Lopo Nascimento, Defense Minister Iko Carrera and general secretary Lucio Lara.

From a copy of the confidential Moran memo, here are the key excerpts:

"Question (by Moran): What is the position of the MPLA on the presence of Soviet and Cuban troops and military advisers in Angola?

"Answer: We have no desire for a permanent Soviet or Cuban presence. When the other foreign forces withdraw, so too will the Soviets and Cubans.

"Question: Is this an assurance which I can carry back to my government as representing the position of the MPLA?

"Answer: Yes.

"Question: (Will) the MPLA . . . allow the Soviet Union the use of air and naval facilities in Angola?

"Answer: You may assure your government that we will never permit the establishment of any foreign bases on Angolan soil, air or naval, including those of the Soviet Union. This is superpower business, and we want none of it."

The idea of U.S.-MPLA talks "on a public or private basis . . . on issues of mutual concern" drew an enthusiastic response from the Africans. "We are not only ready, we would welcome the opportunity," the three MPLA leaders told Moran.

Asked the Tunney aide; "Would formal recognition by Washington or a cessation of American assistance to other parties in the Angolan conflict be a necessary precondition?"

No, said the Angolans, "the MPLA recognizes the political difficulty of the United States (formally) recognizing our movement." In other words, informal ties such as those existing between Communist China and the United States would suffice.

Moran told the MPLA leaders bluntly that Americans feared once the communist forces had digested Angola, they would threaten "the stability of neighboring countries such as Zaire, Zambia" and South Africa.

The MPLA leaders hedged their remarks about white-domonated South Africa, but they promised not to move against Zambia and Zaire. "We will have our hands full in Angola," suggested one MPLA leader.

The Tunney aide found the Angolans seemingly willing to seek an agreement on the Gulf-run oil fields of Cabinda, which are now in MPLA hands. They also indicated some form of coalition government was likely in Angola.

Their main complaint to Moran, curiously, was not that the U.S. had provided millions in arms aid to defeat them but that the U.S. had impounded two Boeing airliners paid for by Angola.

Just as Moran was leaving Angola, significantly, a high foreign ministry official approached him and asked again "if it would be possible for a representative of the MPLA government to visit the United States publicly or privately for talks with both Administration and Congressional representatives."

Right up to the declaration of independence from Portual, MPLA leaders maintained an informal relationship with the U.S. consulate in Luanda. They had a high regard for consul Thomas Killoran who probably would be trusted by them to reestablish contact now.

The U.S. has been dealing behind the scenes, meanwhile, with the hated South Africans, who backed the rival UNITA faction. Last October, Zaire's President Mobuto Sese Seko met at his home with UNITA's Jonas Savimbi. A mysterious American official, probably a CIA man, was present. He promised Savimbi military aid, but no troops, through Zaire.

Think on these things

Crying is a lot like love. Everyone says it is supposed to be good for you, but no one explains why. If something hurts that much, can it be good?

Tears release tensions that are a lot more harmful than being afraid someone will see us in a weak moment. It is the cheapest form of therapy and much quicker in results. There is usually that feeling of having been silly after tears, but that is merely a sign that tears have not been a weapon nor is there ever a chance of your becoming a professional mourner. Children are often told that grownups don't cry, but if they did more often there might be less fighting to weep about.

We haven't blundered—yet

Last Christmas Eve Secretary of State Kissinger sent warnings to Russia and to Cuba to get out of Angola "or face United States resistance." He'd better not have meant what that sounds like!

Moscow has no business intruding in the internal affairs of Angola or any other foreign country, and by doing so ignores the promises she made at Helsinki last summer.

Neither Cuba nor South Africa has any right to intervene either, as both have. Nor does the United States have any right.

Nor does the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). I understand CORE has been trying to recruit a volunteer force of American blacks for "mediation duty" with the so-called Organization of African Unity.

Vietnam should have taught us that outsiders are wrong — even when they're right — when they invite themselves to participate in anybody's family fight.

The civil war in Angola — however it is resolved — poses no threat whatever to U.S. interests. It's an interesting paradox that some misguided Americans are seeking to disarm our own home folks — to legislate guns away from law-abiding Americans — while at the same time in fiscal 1975 we sent some $10 billion worth of guns to other nations.

If the Mideast should explode there will be "made in the U.S." guns and planes on both sides. It is inconceivable that the lesson we learned in Asia we are forgetting in Africa, yet Kissinger's repeated threats indicate his willingness to involve us beyond the $50 million or more we've already sent to two of the warring armies in Angola.

Kissinger says, "If the Soviet Union continues action such as Angola we will, without any question, resist." A recent Bill Mauldin cartoon said it best. It shows Kissinger standing beside the President's desk. The President is speaking. He is saying, "You're right, Henry. You're absolutely right — we've got to save Angola! Where's Angola?"

Well, if this recent Congress did nothing else right, it did indeed resist the noxious notion that we should again trap ourselves in the cross fire of somebody else's intramural strife.

There was nothing Congress could do about military supplies already over there or in the pipeline, but all of us who were misled by our own good intentions to a step-by-step suicidal mission in Vietnam are alert this time.

I'll tell you something about secretaries of state — and not just this one. All of them are inclined to imagine that they are maintaining a precarious world balance and that the slightest weight-shift by any superpower threatens us all.

What they forget is that, however super the power, "overextension" does not enhance a nation's strength but rather "overtaxes" it.

Ann Landers

Don't believe all you see

Dear Ann Landers: I see by the newspapers from coast to coast that you attended the wedding of Brenda Starr and Basil St. John. One of the papers reported that you accepted the invitation because you wanted to know how a 23-year-old girl had managed to hang on to her virginity for 36 years.

Pictures of you and Dale Messick, the author of "Brenda Starr," appeared all over the country, as well as in Time magazine. This is what I am writing about.

For years you have been saying you've never had a drink in your life and describe yourself as a "total abstainer." Yet, in all the pictures, you are holding a champagne glass and toasting the newlyweds. How do you explain this, Ann Landers? — Washington Post Reader

Dear W. P. Reader: Remember the old adage, "Believe nothing you hear and only half of what you see"? Well — in this case you can't even believe half of what you saw.

I declined the champagne, but agreed to pose between Dale Messick and Priscilla of Boston as they hoisted THEIR champaigne glasses.

In the newspaper pictures, Miss Messick's arm is raised in such a way that it looks as if it is mine. The photo in Time magazine, however, is larger and clearer. It shows me with my hands clasped in front of me, which is the way I usually stand when others are enjoying the ol' bubbly.

Dear Ann: A reader asked what was the best thing to do if he is unlucky enough to be in an elevator that is crashing. He wanted to know if it would help to hang onto the rails across the top or to jump up and down so when the elevator hit the bottom he would be in mid-air, thus sustaining less serious injuries.

You replied, "I don't want to bother Dr. Jerome Wiesner, the president of M.I.T., with that one, but my instincts tell me it wouldn't make much difference what you did."

Well, your instincts were WRONG. I just read a book on survival by a man named Greenbank. He says: "If you are in an elevator that is crashing, it is essential that no part of your body touch the floor at impact. If the elevator has a rail at the top or sides, jump up and cling desperately. If there is no rail or ledge to cling to, or if the passenger is too old or weak to hang on, he should jump up and down, in the hope that his feet are not on the floor when the impact occurs." — Butler, Pa.

Dear But: I don't know who Mr. Breenbank is, but I just happened to receive a letter from Dr. Jerome Wiesner, the president of M.I.T. He is one of the most distinguished scientists in the world and has served as science adviser to three Presidents. This is what HE says:

Dear Ann Landers: Your instincts are good! Have you ever thought of teaching physics? Sincerely yours, Jerry Wiesner.

CONFIDENTIAL to Through with Love Forever: Sorry, I don't agree. Remember Mark Twain's remark: We should be careful to get out of an experience only the wisdom that is in it — and stop there; lest we be like the cat that sits down on the hot stove-lid. She will never sit down on a hot stove-lid again — or a cold one.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, " 'Dating Do's and Don'ts,' " will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Leash training very important

DEAR DR. MILLER: Ralph is a very small dog, but he can pull really hard. He does, whenever we walk him on his leash. I've tried pulling the leash and releasing it slowly to stop him from doing this. For a while it worked, but the next time I walked him, he continued pulling me around. How can I stop him from doing this? — F.B.

DEAR F.B.: Leash training is an important part of Ralph's schooling. Ideally, it's combined with a complete canine curriculum. Correctly utilizing a properly-put-on chain training collar is a vital part of the leash training. A book on dog training, or, preferably, a canine obedience school, will give you this and other valuable information.

DEAR DR. MILLER: How do you know how much penicillin to give growing tropical fish to stimulate their growth? Is there some general rule of thumb one can use? - V.R.

DEAR V.R.: Yes. A safe rule of thumb is not to use any antibiotics for this purpose . . . Penicillin not only does not stimulate growth, it may even inhibit it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have two chickens, one of which I have just gotten. The new chicken had feathers missing on her. In some places, you could see her skin and now my other chicken is the same way, and they won't come out of their cage and they don't eat much. — M.M.

DEAR M.M.: Pet chickens, young ones especially, are frequently fouled up from a combination of factors making up a poor environment — too little space inadequately cleaned, drafts and violent temperature changes, incorrect lighting, a stressful, noisy environment, plus poor nutrition. Besides the correction of such failings, they need good quality chicken food of a type appropriate for their age. A young fowl found featherless around its posterior could be suffering from an infection. It would, then, be sluggish and eat poorly. Feather loss in other areas could be due to anything from malnutrition to parasites. Any pets, chicken or otherwise, need proper care. Without it, they will die. One who hasn't the ability, inclination or interest to provide for a pet properly from the very start shouldn't bother to have one. It's unfair to all concerned, and often inhumane to the poor animals involved.

Thoughts

For freedom Christ has set us free; stand fast therefore, and rejoice, O young man, in your youth, and let your heart cheer you in the days of your youth; walk in the ways of your heart and the sight of your eyes. But know that for all these things God will bring you into judgment. — Eccl. 11:9.

"He who would pass his declining years with honor and comfort, should, when young, consider that he may one day become old, and remember when he is old, that he has once been young." — Joseph Addison, English essayist.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take a middle position today on matters of importance to better evaluate the advantages offered by each side.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Concentrate today's efforts on situations that can add to your resources or save you money. Results should be rewarding.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Events you take a hand in managing today should work out quite satisfactorily. Use your initiative.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't leave important matters having a direct effect upon the family hanging today. A fast conclusion is to your advantage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Friends will find you very pleasant company today. You'll have a way of inspiring them with your thoughts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your chances for gain look rather good again today. Opportunities may come through work or from one close to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is no better time than now to act on carefully considered plans. Get the ball rolling today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's unlikely you'll come out second best in your business dealings today, especially if you use shrewd insights and hunches.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The bigger the group today, the more it should be to your liking. Seek your fun where the action is.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Challenges that others may be too fretful to attempt shouldn't dismay you today. Set a determined example.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Some information may be passed to you today through a friend. Don't sit on it too long — it could cool off.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, rather than tomorrow, others will be more willing to do you favors. Take prompt advantage of what they offer.

Your birthday — Feb. 18, 1976

She gets letters—six of them

The popularity of a column is reflected in the amount of mail it receives.

These are the six letters I got last year.

ON MANNERS: "Your column on manners brought back memories of our daughter. We had a freshly baked cake cooling on top of the refrigerator and of course she spotted it and began yelling, 'Pie, pie, pie.' (Do your kids call cake, pie, and pie, cake?)

"I finally cut her a piece and in handing it to her said, 'Now, what do you say?' With a wide smile and blue eyes sparkling she muttered, softly, 'Spoon.' "

ON WEIGHT: "At the close of World War II, one of the first missions the Army undertook in the invasion of the Philippines was the rescue of allied civilians being held at the infamous San Tomas POW camp outside Manila.

"An Army doctor helped one of the first liberated American women on the scales and called out, 'This woman is five feet seven inches tall. She weighs 65 pounds.'

" 'Sixty-five pounds,' screeched the former prisoner. 'That's wonderful. Now if I can just lose five more pounds, I'll be just right!' "

ON DISCIPLINE: "When our kids were small, my wife and I would take turns being the 'bad guy' so that I wasn't always the bogey man with the spanking bit. She'd take a month and I'd take a month to even it out. We referred to one another as the 'designated hitter.' "

ON LETTER WRITERS: "When our son was in college and failed to write for some time, my husband and I would send him a newsy letter in which we would say, 'Thought you might need a little more money. Enclosed is a check.' Of course we left the check out.

"Almost immediately, we received a very newsy letter with a casual P.S. saying, 'By the way, you forgot to enclose the check.' "

ON UPMANSHIP: "A child psychologist was breakfasting with his daughter, who refused to eat. She insisted on being served a fried worm. The fried worm was brought in and the father told her to eat. The child said, 'You eat half of it!' The father complied and the child whined, 'You just ate my half.' "

ON DOGS: "You, lady, can go to h! You don't know anything about dogs. They are better than people. They're kinder. Smarter. And care about you. I promise if you write another column about dogs, I am not going to take your gd newspaper! Have a good day."

Dr. Lamb

Prostate cancer big killer

DEAR DR. LAMB — On a routine examination my doctor found a hardening of my prostate. He sent me to a specialist for a biopsy that turned out to be malignant. He prescribed one gram of diethylstilbesterol for the rest of my life and informed me I may have to have my testicles removed.

I asked him what my life expectancy was and he said 20 years and let him worry about it. I asked my family doctor and he said one to five years.

Any information you would care to give me would be greatly appreciated. I already have enlarged breasts.

DEAR READER — Opinions differ on the best treatment for cancer of the prostate so don't be surprised that what I tell you may vary from what you have heard.

There are about 25,000 new cases of cancer of the prostate in American men each year and 17,000 deaths. It is one of the most important cancers in men. About half of these can be identified by a simple rectal examination. That is one of several reasons why such an examination should be part of every physical.

Many men have clinically insignificant forms of cancer of the prostate. A small nest of relatively inactive cancer cells may be found inside the prostate. If a man lives long enough, he will likely have this even though it may never cause him any trouble at all.

What to do about cancer of the prostate depends entirely on how far it has progressed. When the cancer is confined to the prostate as a small nest of cells or even when it is large enough to be felt on rectal examination but is still confined to the gland itself, efforts should be made for a complete cure of cancer. How is this done? By surgery on the gland or radiation or both. Hormone therapy or chemotherapy has no place in the treatment of these localized cancers. That means no female hormones and no castration, but rather total removal or destruction of the actual localized cancer.

If the cancer has spread outside the gland to involve the pelvic area or to distant bony sites then you can consider the use of hormones or castration. The idea is to eliminate the influence of the male hormone which is essential for the maintenance of the cancer cells regardless of where they are located. Sometimes such therapy is successful in reducing spots of bone spread, and particularly in relieving pain. There is no real evidence though that the use of female hormones or castration or the combination actually prolong life.

The United States Veterans Administration Co-operative Urological Research Group reported that deaths from heart and vascular disease actually increased 75 per cent in men taking estrogen for cancer of the prostate, which makes this therapy even more questionable in the minds of many authorities. This being the case, there seems little justification for using either estrogen or performing castration except to provide symptomatic relief.

Obviously, I can't say anything about what your life expectancy is without knowing if your disease had already spread beyond the prostate. Those who want more information on the prostate, including prostate infections and enlargement, can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 1-6, Prostrate Gland. Rape punishment in biblical times

How rape was dealt with in Biblical times is a matter of curiosity. If it occurred in a city, both the man and the woman were judged equally guilty, so punished by stoning. If it happened in the countryside, only the man was decreed culpable, so sentenced to death, and the woman was set free. Clean reasoning was that in a town, a woman's screams for help would have been heard, so if there were no such cries, she was regarded as a partner in the crime. But out in the fields, with nobody around to hear her yell, she was permitted the presumption of unwilling innocence.

TAKE-HOME PAY

Q. "I make $15,400 a year. A dozen years ago, I made $10,000. Is my take-home more or less now?"

A. Less. By $529. Because of new taxes, whatnot. Or so says a money man.

Why is it women are more likely than men to get seasick?

Wasn't President Andrew Jackson, as I wrote, but President Andrew Johnson who was taught to read and write by his wife, please note.

Suicide is said to be the major occupational hazard among ladies of the night. A San Diego scholar, who interviewed 300 such professional women, reports exactly half of them say that at one time or another they had tried to kill themselves.

GOOD HELP

So you think good help is hard to find, do you? That's not new. George Washington himself had to advertise as follows: "A cook is wanted for the family of the President of the United States. No one need apply who is not perfect in the business and can undoubtedly function in a sober manner, be honest, and give full attention to the station."

Nobody insofar as is known has ever dispatched an arrow farther than did the Sultan Selim III. It was 178 years ago that he sent a shaft 972 yards 2 2/3 inches. Some shot.

Some historians claim it was Mrs. Deborah Read Franklin, not her husband Benjamin Franklin himself, who actually did the work as Postmaster General of the United States. Of their 44 years in matrimonial harness, the pair were separated for 25 years. Blame Ben's various chores for that. But Mrs. Franklin was a highly active citizen, too. She speculated in real estate some.

Jacoby's bridge

Give one to pick up two

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It really requires a lot of discipline to stay out of seven when you have 11 tricks in your own hand and your partner has shown you an ace and a king. But South knew that his partner's ace was in the spade suit and pretty sure that his king would be there also. As a matter of fact, South had almost settled for the ultra-safe five hearts.

If West had opened a club there would have been no play for six the way the cards lay, but West made his normal lead of a diamond and South was able to bring his slam home by means of giving up one trick to gain two.

He won the diamond lead and promptly led a low trump toward dummy's seven and six. East won a surprise trick with his eight, but now South had an entry to dummy to be able to discard his two low clubs on the ace and king of spades.

Compare FedMart's low prices with what you've been paying . . . the proof is in your pantry!

With almost every supermarket claiming to have the lowest prices, it's difficult to know who to believe. But it's easy to judge for yourself. Just go to your pantry, refrigerator, or freezer and look at the prices you've been paying for meat, produce, dairy products, your favorite national brands and the store's own brands. Then write down the price you paid next to FedMart's price. Add up the number of prices where FedMart is lower and judge for yourself.

You'll find that shopping at FedMart will save you money on most items. We can do it because we're much more than just a supermarket. We sell lots of things in over 20 departments and we've taken many costly frills out of handling merchandise too. For example, you'll find groceries displayed in their original cartons. So why not compare this small sampling of FedMart's low prices. Then come to FedMart and judge for yourself.

'Enriched Flavor'™

Entry Outdates Conventional Low Tar Cigarettes.

New flavor discovery for 9 mg. tar MERIT achieves taste of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

Now there's a way to cut tar without the usual loss in taste.

That's the report from Philip Morris on a new taste discovery called 'Enriched Flavor'. A way to pack flavor—extra flavor—into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The kind of flavor that outdates conventional low tar brands.

The cigarette with 'Enriched Flavor' is remarkable new MERIT.

If you smoke—whether it's a low tar brand with a taste you can't quite get used to, or a full-flavor smoke you enjoy but with a tar level you'd like to drop—you'll be interested.

Smoke "Cracked": Key Ingredients Isolated

After a twelve-year research effort, a team of scientists at our Richmond Research Center succeeded in isolating the "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco as they exist in cigarette smoke.

By adding only those ingredients which are of extreme high quality as flavor producers yet low tar producers as well, we're now able to pack incredible flavor into a cigarette without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

'Enriched Flavor'. It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't drop out, can't do anything but come through.

We packed 'Enriched Flavor' into the tobacco used to make MERIT.

And began an extensive series of taste tests. The results were startling.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested at home.*

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at only 9 mg. tar.

Baseball talks continue

NEW YORK (AP) — It's very much like any other baseball road trip...two weeks and six cities long. But Marvin Miller's current nationwide journey is considerably more vital than a ball club's ordinary mid-season swing.

The results of Miller's meetings with the players and continuing negotiations with the owners will determine whether spring training will start on time or, in fact, whether it will start at all.

Baseball's rites of spring usually begin in the last week of February with pitchers and catchers reporting first, followed by other players, who are usually due in camp by March 1.

But no dates have been set for spring training, 1976, and the time is growing short if camps are to open on time. That is why the owners' negotiators have decided to follow Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, on his trip. Negotiations will continue while Miller briefs the players on the status of the talks.

The two sides met Monday in Los Angeles, with Miller set to talk to the players there today. On Wednesday, National League owners meet in Chicago and it's no coincidence that the site is the same hotel where Miller will be talking to players Thursday.

Miller moves on to Cincinnati Friday, returning to New York for a Saturday negotiating session before moving on to Houston and Philadelphia next week and concluding his swing in Miami March 2.

Publicly, the owners have maintained that they want to start spring training on time. Miller would be agreeable to that, but the owners insist that before they open camps they will have an agreement with the players. That simply may be impossible to accomplish in the two short weeks before the traditional March 1 start, especially with the two sides far apart on most issues.

The owners are seeking changes in the contract language dealing with the controversial reserve clause. Miller, of course, is perfectly satisfied with the way it reads right now, especially after it helped pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally win free agent status from arbitrator Peter Seitz. The arbitration ruling was upheld by federal court judge John Oliver and is now being appealed by the owners in Circuit Court.

In last week's talks, the owners proposed an altered reserve clause that would allow an eight-year veteran to play out his option. After the option year, the player would be subjected to a draft where up to eight clubs could select him. He then would be free to choose from among those teams drafting him.

Miller said such a proposal "would have" represented progress in 1905, but not in 1976."

In other areas, the owners offered to increase annual pension contributions from $6.45 million to $7 million over the next four years and double medical insurance coverage from the current $50,000 to $100,000. Other proposals offered an increase in the current $16,000 minimum salary of $1,000 per year through 1979 and cost of living considerations for spring training and in-season expenses.

Charger owner steals the show

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Johnny Sanders has been named the new general manager of the San Diego Chargers but a revelation about a 1973 drug scandal stole the headlines.

The announcement that Sanders would replace Harland Svare came Monday at a news conference. Owner Eugene Klein made the statement, but what he had to say next was that a psychiatrist handed out more than 1,700 pills to the Charger players — against team orders — in 1973.

Klein said one player "received 400 to 450 of these dangerous drugs". He added that the psychiatrist who was responsible was Dr. Arnold Mandell of the University of California at San Diego.

The owner of the National Football League club made the remarks one month after he fired Svare. Svare then issued a statement in which he blamed Mandell for the loss of his job because of statements made by the psychiatrist in a yet-to-be-released book, segments of which have been published in a San Diego newspaper.

Mandell was an unpaid consultant to the Chargers in 1973 until the league ordered him to leave.

In a book entitled "The Nightmare Season," Mandell is critical of Klein and Svare. Svare has said he plans to sue Mandell for losing his job.

Mandell, meanwhile, has declined comment and was unavailble Monday for any response to Klein's statements.

Klein said the extent of the drug dispensing became known to him only since the first of this year. But in May 1973 he said Svare met with Mandell, two other team doctors and both trainers and "definitely told them that under no conditions were any of them to prescribe or give any amphetamines whatsoever to the players.

"We have witnesses who will testify that Mandell dispensed prescriptions in the locker room unbeknownst to anyone in the management or the coaching staff," Klein stated.

But Klein said he has "no accusations to make" and has no plans to notify authorities formally.

The 1973 drug incident ended with the NFL levying fines against the owner, Svare and several players.

Sanders, formerly a scout for the Los Angeles Rams, has been with the Chargers for a year as assistant to the president for player relations.

Poly's women stun UCLA

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

The Cal Poly Broncos will need some help to build a nationally recognized women's basketball team, but they are well on their way after Monday night's upset victory over the UCLA Bruins.

The extremely aggressive Broncos bombed the Bruins, 82-56, at Poly's "Poly Pavilion".

After trailing 36-31 at the end of the first half, the Broncos came back with 14 straight points to start the second half. From that point on, the home team continued to build the lead. Near the end of the rout, Poly held its largest margin of 28 points, at 82-54.

Both the Broncos and UCLA are members of the Southern California Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCWIAC). Poly is now 11-2 with the win, while the Bruins are 11-1, as they suffered their first setback of the season.

The Broncos are hopeful that they will be able to enter the small college regional tournament in San Jose after the season. As things stand now, the team needs to raise $3700 to go to both the regionals and the nationals which will be held in Ashland, Ohio.

The squad is short $1700 at this time, but they still will make every attempt to go to the tournaments. Darlene May, coach of the Broncos, said that there is a good chance her team would go to the nationals should they be able to fund the trip.

"The toughest team in the regionals is Biola and we beat them here by 25 points," she said.

Both May and her counterpart at UCLA, Ellen Mosher, say that the girls are totally dedicated to the game.

"Every day we practice from about 2:20 to 5 o'clock," said May. Mosher almost echoed the words, "The girls are expected to be at practice, and on time — if not they're penalized and they pay off. We practice everyday for two hours."

The Broncos received an outstanding balanced offensive attack in Monday's game. Mary Reichert and Jill Spencer led Poly with 16 points apiece. Linda Scheenstra, a 6'0 center formerly of Chaffey High, poured in 13 points all in the second and decisive half.

Joan Uhl, a 5'-11" sophomore, had 10 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to lead Poly. The host team grabbed 48 rebounds to UCLA's 36.

UCLA's All-American guard-forward Ann Meyers, the sister of former UCLA star forward and Milwaukee Bucks' rookie Dave Meyers, was plagued with fouls throughout the contest. Meyers, a 5-9 sophomore, picked up her third foul with 11:18 to play in the first half and had to leave the line-up. She fouled out with 1:41 to play in the game with just six points and nine rebounds.

Karen Nash led the Bruins' point-makers with a game high 17.

When asked whether or not she felt women's basketball would ever be a professional sport, coach Mosher commented, "It might be — but it would take at least five years from now. The players would have to play the kind of basketball people want to pay for. I would rather see college leagues develop until they're really strong, before developing a pro league."

The sport is drawing pretty well depending on what team you are and who you are playing. The Broncos had about 500 people turn out Monday night.

Usually, Poly has around 200 to 300 fans at home games, but obviously there was a great deal more interest because of the Westwooders appearance.

Both the schools offer scholarships to the girls, however, neither one can give the girl a full scholarship. At UCLA, a partial scholarship is given to cover the tuition, while at Poly, which is considerably less expensive, both the tuition and fees are paid for.

Many of the girls are being prepared in high school for their basketball careers in college, although "the high school teams," said Coach Mosher, "are not really that strong."

Coach May wants more students to get to know the program that her school is offering. "I'd like to make students aware of what we are doing down here. If people realize we are here to stay, we will get better coverage from the local newspapers and the campus paper."

If May's squad continues to play the way they did against the Bruins, Poly should have no trouble becoming recognized as one of the top teams in the country.

Santa Anita exacta payoff is $7,180

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Santa Anita recorded a record $7,180.50 exacta payoff Monday when 99-1 longshot Dateable won the fifth race and the 5-1 shot Our Market placed second.

Three races later, Announcer won a thrilling stretch duel with Top Crowd and captured the $65,200 San Luis Obispo Handicap for his second consecutive victory.

Ridden by Fernando Toro, Announcer was last early in the race but challenged as the small field turned for home. In the final two furlongs, Top Crowd and Announcer were head and head before the latter won by a length.

Announcer carried 118 pounds in the marathon 1½-mile race on the turf. He was timed in 2 minutes 30 4-5 seconds.

Top Crowd, with Frank Olivares aboard, was eight lengths in front of favored Zanthe, who had Laffit Pincay Jr. aboard. Announcer paid $9.60, $4.40 and $2.60. Top Crowd returned $3.80 and $2.40 and Zanthe $2.40. Only six horses started the George Washington's Birthday feature.

In the seventh race, Diabolo, winner of the 1975 California Derby, broke down and was taken from the track in an ambulance. A preliminary examination by a veterinarian showed a shattered right hind pastern and it wasn't immediately known if doctors could save the 4-year-old colt.

Longshots scored well on the soft track. The crowd was thrilled first when 26-1 longshot Key Ridge ran second in the first race and the place payoff was $21.80.

Veranda C. paid $21.40 for running second in the third race and La Joie Regal won the fourth for a payoff of $31.80.

The exacta payoff for a $5 ticket in the fifth race exceeded the previous record of $5,747 set in 1973.

Terps crew defeats MIT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Maryland's crew paddled away with top honors Monday at the 4th annual socalled Great Canoe Race.

The Terrapins traveled 374 miles, or 499 laps. They outdistanced second-place Massachusetts Institute of Technology by 22 laps around the Busch Gardens figure-eightshaped course in suburban Van Nuys. MIT's 477 laps equaled 358 miles.

UCLA was third with 459 laps and 344 miles, and the defending champions, USC, came in dead last with 456 laps or 342 miles. The Trojans had won the event for the last three years.

Each of the teams did better than the old record of 429 laps, set by USC last year. The competition started at noon Friday and continued 72 hours nonstop.

Greg Ballard wins award

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Greg Ballard, who scored 52 points and grabbed 24 rebounds to lead the Oregon Ducks past California and Stanford last weekend, was named Pacific-8 Conference basketball player of the week Tuesday.

The 6-foot-7 junior from Pomona's Garey High scored 32 points and collected 12 rebounds in Oregon's 75-64 victory over California. He scored 20 points and had 12 rebounds in a lopsided 84-62 victory over Stanford.

Coach Dick Harter called Ballard's performance "the best Greg has played all year," adding that he has averaged 19.5 points over the past 10 games.

Convicts see Ali

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — "I'll take on the two toughest cats you got here," Muhammad Ali told a crowd of convicts at a San Juan jail.

The heavyweight champion had stripped off his shirt Monday and climbed into a makeshift ring set up in the yard at the Rio Piedras State Prison on the southern edge of San Juan, where some 1,000 prisoners are confined.

"I float like a butterfly and sting like a bee," Ali said.

The champion said he'd take on their best after his title fight Friday night—in a better part of town—against challenger Jean-Pierre Coopman of Belgium.

The convicts saw him for free. Ringside seats for Friday's event go for $200.

Since Ali arrived on this 3,423-square mile Caribbean island to wind up training, he has maintained a low profile, cooling the brash image he often projects.

He helped Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon inaugurate a park. After the meeting, he said: "Man, you sure have a beautiful governor. Most of the voters here must be women."

After that he spoke to University of Puerto Rico students, showed up during the filming in old San Juan of a motion picture, put on a five-minute round comic fight with a local comedian for chairty, kissed babies and signed autographs and more autographs.

There was a break to travel to Chicago to attend a birthday party for his manager, Herbert Muhammad, and to get a ticket for traveling 109 miles per hour in his Rolls Royce.

Despite those diversions, Ali has been getting up 5:30 a.m. daily and running for 35 or 40 minutes, and also working out at least an hour a day in the gym. There is a ring at the beachfront hotel where Ali and Coopman have been working out.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Spirits of St. Louis announced Monday that guard Don Chaney will be out of action for two to three weeks with an injured knee.

The spokesman said he sustained torn ligaments and possible cartilage damage.

NFL stars tour bases

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Lambert and Lynn Swann of the Pittsburgh Steelers, James Harris of the Los Angeles Rams and D.D. Lewis of the Dallas Cowboys will represent the National Football League on a tour of overseas U.S. military bases.

They will visit bases in Korea, Okinawa, The Philippines and Hawaii during a 21-day tour starting Feb. 25. The trip is sponsored by the USO and the Department of Defense.

Prep cagers seek playoff berths

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

It's all come down to the final week of league play for most of the 10 valley teams which are still in the CIF playoff picture.

The Alta Loma Braves, who have already clinched the Hacienda League title, have a playoff berth awaiting them when postseason play begins 10 days from now, and Garey and Ganesha, who can finish no worse than tied for second place in the San Antonio League, are virtually assured playoff berths.

Damien, Claremont, Bonita, Ontario, Walnut, Chaffey and Ontario Christian still may get to the playoffs, but they must earn their berths with victories this week.

Bill Roberts of Damien is typical of the coaches who still have a shot at postseason play and who feel they need to win the rest of their games. His Spartans, third in the SAL with an 8-4 record, will visit Ganesah tonight. The Giants (10-2), are tied for the lead with Garey.

"The kids feel like they have their backs to the wall," Roberts said. "The only way we can make sure we get into the playoffs is to win both our games this week."

Even two wins would put the Spartans in a tie for second place at best.

"If we finish third, the CIF might not take us," Roberts said. Each of the 13 leagues in the 3A division will get two playoff berths, with six remaining spots to be dividied among the 13 leagues.

"There will be some second-place ties and so on, and we're probably not the best third-place team around," Roberts observed.

He figures his team will beat the Giants this time around.

"We didn't play well last time and they only beat us by two points. We have more confidence now and more to lose. If we lose it's all over — that's it."

Waiting in the wings in case the Spartans stumble are Jack Smith and his Claremont Wolfpack. With a 7-5 record, the 'Pack has a shot at third place and possibly a playoff berth. Claremont will host Montclair tonight.

Other SAL contests tonight will be Upland at Garey and Chino at Pomona. All games will begin at 7 p.m.

Also tonight, Chaffey will host Fontana (7:30 p.m.) and Ontario Christian will entertain L.A. Lutheran (8 p.m.). Chaffey, in second place in the Citrus Belt League, and OCHS, third in the Olympic, are both looking for playoff spots.

La Verne Lutheran was scheduled to visit Webb this afternoon at 4:30, and American Christian will visit Riverside Christian at 8 p.m.

Wednesday's Hacienda League schedule will find Alta Loma at Ontario, Bonita at Royal Oak, Walnut at Sierra Vista and Gladstone at San Dimas, all at 4:45 p.m.

A win for Bonita (9-3) or a loss for Ontario (8-4) would guarantee the Bearcats a tie for second and a playoff spot. A win for Ontario or a loss for Walnut (6-6) will give the Jaguars third place and a probable playoff berth.

Walnut can still finish in a tie for third with Ontario if the Mustangs win both their remaining games. Ontario will visit Walnut Friday in the league finale for both teams.

Webb School, which is scheduled to play today, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, will host Big Bear Wednesday at 4:30 p.m.

Golfing greats open L.A. Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jimmy Demaret, Ralph Guhldahl, Jug McSpaden Byron Nelson. Names from the golfing hierarchy of yesteryear, they are playing again today.

As a prelude to the $185,000 Los Angeles Open, the sponsors scheduled a Tournament of the Decades with a former star paired with a current great.

It will be a best-ball twosome format and even the venerable Sam Snead, who still competes against the youngsters in selected tournaments, will be with the oldsters and paired with Bobby Nichols.

The Riviera Country Club will be the scene again and that's the same course where Nelson, the ace of the 40's, beat Ben Hogan in 1946 and won $2,666 for his victory. This time, for the regular tournament starting Thursday, the triumph will be worth $37,000.

Jack Nicklaus withdrew from the tournament because of continuing business in Florida, but the field will include both Ben Crenshaw and Johnny Miller, winners of two tournaments already this year, J.C. Snead who captured the San Diego Open on Sunday, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player.

It will be Pat Fitzsimons defending the title he won with a surprise in 1975.

Old timers were invited for today to help celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Los Angeles Open which has been held at several sites with the current Riviera generally accepted as the toughest overall test of the golfers.

JCs start trend to metric system

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

It's time for local track fans to get out their metric rulers and conversion tables and to begin thinking in terms of meters and centimeters instead of yards and inches.

John Norton of Mt. San Antonio College said Monday at a luncheon gathering of valley college track coaches that not only the MSAC Relays, but also the South Coast Conference, Southern California and state junior college championships will be run in metric distances this season.

The SCC and Southern California championships will be held at MSAC this spring, with the state finals to be held at Bakersfield as they were last year.

"We try to be as progressive as we can," said Norton. "Metric is certainly the coming thing, and we'd rather get in at the beginning than at the tail end."

Only the 44-yard and mile relays will be run in their standard form at the junior college finals.

"We'll be voting this week whether or not to run the SCC dual meets in metric this season," said Norton.

Three valley colleges have new head coaches this year. Norton, formerly an assistant coach at MSAC, has taken over the head coaching job from Don Ruh, who will be devoting more time to organizing the MSAC Relays; Jim George has moved from San Dimas High to Cal Poly; and Gayle Hopkins, after five years as San Francisco State's head track coach, has taken the new fulltime track coach job at Claremont-Mudd. Chris Parkson will continue to coach parttime at C-M.

JIM GEORGE, Cal Poly: "We're trying to rebuild a strong track program but unfortunately our conference (the California Collegiate Athletic Association) is loaded.

"The conference champ last year (Cal State Northridge) finished first in the NCAA Division II finals, the runnerup (Cal Poly SLO) was third and we were sixth.

"I feel that we're in a five-year developmental program. We'll work on recruiting, fostering better relationships in the valley and developing a strong, stable program. I'm the fifth Cal Poly coach in 10 years.

"We have 26 people eligible right now and about 50 people in the program. We should be very strong in the middle distances."

George lists among his top performers pole vaulters Mark Kegans, and Walt Scroggy, 440-man Jerrold Curry, intermediate hurdler Paul Nelson, distanceman Greg Morrison, and javelin thrower Tim O'Connor.

GAYLE HOPKINS, Claremont-Mudd: "We're a new team and we'll have to rebuild. I don't know anything about the conference yet except that Occidental is very strong.

"Occidental has the tradition behind them and we don't. But I don't see why we can't do the same things they do in time. In four or five years we might get third place or so, but Occidental, Pomona-Pitzer and Redlands are very strong.

"You have to get the numbers in track. You can't do well with 16 or 18 people, which Claremont-Mudd has had the past two years. We have 18 to 25 out this year, but I consider the minimum number to be 37 in order to be competitive in every event.

"I think 85 per cent of the problem at Claremont-Mudd was that the track coach was parttime. That way the athlete has no one to come in and talk to during the day. It's important that we'll have two coaches this year, because one can't watch all the events at once during practice."

Hopkins lists among his top athletes Eric Haley (440 and mile relays, long jump), Bill Johnson (three mile) and Art Pinkney and Danny Goldman (440).

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "This will be our fifth season with no track facilities on campus — no pits, no throwing circles and no track. We do have some fellows trying to get themselves into shape by running in the streets and so on. I have about 18 fellows talking about being part of our track activities.

"It's misleading to say we have any athletes returning from last year. Who did anything last year?

"Dana Lanier is pretty good as a shot putter, and Bill Hopkins, a sophomore transfer from Illinois, will probably set school records in the 440, 880 and mile. That will put him fourth or fifth in most of our meets."

JOHN NORTON, MSAC: "We have a fine team this year, but our conference is more talent-laden than it has ever been in its history. Grossmont is now in the conference (after moving from the Mission Conference) and they haven't lost a duel meet in 54 times out. Fullerton looks stronger than when it had the state champion team two years ago, and Orange Coast is also very strong. We just hope to squeeze in there the best we can.

"Marcus Gordien from Claremont High (a transfer from San Bernardino Valley College) has already broken our school discus record this year.

"He has thrown 190 feet in practice and the state JC record is 187-5."

Wetenkamp first to surpass 500

Damien High's Mike Wetenkamp became the valley's first prep basketball player to surpass 500 points last week when his 49-point total for two games boosted his scoring to 532 points for the season.

Wetenkamp increased his scoring derby lead over second-place Steve Sly of Bonita to almost a full point. The 6-foot-3 Damien senior is averaging 23.1 points through 23 games, while Sly's 488 points in 22 contests gives him a 22.2 average.

Sly needs just 12 points in two games to reach the 500-point plateau in regular season games, and two other valley players have a good shot at 500.

George Terry of Ganesha needs just 22 points in this week's final two league games and Gary Carpenter of Garey needs 37. Terry, with 478 points in 24 games, has an average of 19.9 points per game, while Carpenter, with 463 points in 24 games, stands at 19.3.

Lopez seeks shot at title

INGLEWOOD — Danny (Little Red) Lopez, the Number Seven ranked contender for the world featherweight championship, has a chance to box for the title against Alexis Arguello of Nicaragua.

Lopez, who first must get past unbeaten Sean O'Grady of Oklahoma City at the Forum, February 25, has been named by the manager of Arguello as a possible opponent for a May championship match at the Forum.

Don Fraser, Forum boxing promoter, says he has worked out terms with the Arguello's pilot, Dr. Eduardo Roman, for a title defense.

"Lopez is the one the Arguello people want to fight, but a loss to O'Grady would ruin Danny's chances", says Fraser.

Arguello is well known to local fans, having won his World Boxing Association title at the Forum in November of 1974, knocking out Ruben Olivares in the 13th round.

The other version of the featherweight crown (WBC) is worn by Ghana's David Kotey and Lopez also is in line for a shot at the African.

Howie Steindler, Red's veteran manager, said he would make no commitment till after the O'Grady fight.

Busy week for SCIAC

Six of the seven Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) teams are in action tonight in 8 p.m. games.

In an oddly staggered week of scheduling, only Occidental (7-2) is idle tonight.

La Verne (5-4) could knock Whittier (7-2) out of the race tonight at Whittier. The Poets have finished their competition with Redlands (8-1) and have to rely on other teams to beat the Bulldogs. Another defeat would just about eliminate any chance the Poets have of tying.

Pomona-Pitzer (3-6) takes on Redlands tonight at Pomona's Memorial Gym. These are all "must" games for the Bulldogs. A loss tonight would drop them into a tie with Occidental and Whittier if the Poets defeat La Verne.

Claremont-Mud (1-8) should pick up its second conference win tonight. The Stags host Caltech (0-8) in Ducey Gym.

Four of the conference teams play again Thursday night. La Verne is at Oxy while Whittier is at Pomona-Pitzer.

Redlands travels to Caltech for the lone Friday night game.

Two more games are scheduled Saturday. Whittier, playing its third game of the week, is at Caltech. Claremont-Mudd, playing its first game after tonight's contest, hosts Occidental.

The conference winds up play a week from tonight and the playoffs begin a week from Thursday.

"We've got about as tough a week as we've had, schedule wise, so far," said La Verne's Art Bias. "Both Whittier and Oxy are in the thick of the fight for the league title so they'll really be up."

One item which would ordinarily make the Leos' job tougher really will not be the problem it appeared to be when the season began.

The Leopards actually have a better road record this year than they do at home. The Leos recorded only their second conference win of the season last Wednesday, 77-73 over Claremont-Mudd.

La Verne is 2-3 at home and 3-1 on the road. For the season, the Leopards are 5-7 at home and 6-5 on the road.

"I don't know why that is," said Bias. "I just hope it continues this week."

Pomona-Pitzer will be without the services of guard Carlos Guangorena tonight. Guangorena will be taking extensive examinations in his major. The 5-11 senior has scored 24 points in the last two games since replacing Steve Pinkston.

Pinkston has left for Africa where he will be studying this semester. He averaged an even 10 points a game and will be sorely missed.

Replacing Guangorena will be Herb Taylor, a 6-2 freshman.

"One thing we'll have to do is reduce our turnovers and make fewer fouls," said Sagehens coach Les Nagler. "We've been doing what we have to do defensively, but it always seems to end up in a foul and free throw for the other team."

In the 'Hens' 73-70 loss to La Verne Saturday night, the Leos cashed in on 19 of 26 free throws while Nagler's team made only eight of 15.

Both La Verne and Pomona-Pitzer have been making a lot of turnovers. The Leopards have been averaging 20 or more a game of late. The Sagehens did the same thing last week.

Upland has six Karate winners

Six members of the Upland Recreation Department karate team were trophy winners in the recent Citrus College Karate Tournament.

Joanne Mahoney won a first place in the sparring division and took the Grand Champion trophy in Black Belt. Caralyn Morrell finished third in junior form division. Other girls winning trophies were Jean Irwin and Linda Morrison.

For the men, Roy Diaz finished first place in the Black Belt sparring division while Benjamin Lara took third place in the Green Belt division.

John Santiago is team leader. The group works out at Magnolia Recreation Center, Upland, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Registration fees are $10 per month and can be paid at the Upland Recreation Department, 404 N. Second Ave.

BLOCKED OPPONENT — Jack Lynch (2) of the Washington Caps blocks Inge Hammarstrom (11) of Toronto as Hammarstrom tries to get to puck and score. Maple Leafs won, 5-1.

Coach lauds lowly Caps

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — In what almost has become a coach's tradition after playing the Capitals, Toronto Coach Red Kelly said that Washington—with a 6-47-7 record this season—has "a young but determined squad."

"The Capitals have only one player over 30 and once they get some experience they'll be back up there in the league standings," he said.

Kelly also had plaudits for Washington's goalie, Bernie Wolfe, who stopped 37 shots. "Wolfe made some fabulous saves," he said, noting that Borje Salming's second goal, which put the Maple Leafs ahead to stay, was nearly impossible to stop. It was a low shot from the right face-off circle.

His words came after the 5-1 National Hockey League victory. St. Louis defeated California in the other NHL game, while the World Hockey Association took the night off.

Kelly did give his own team some of the credit for winning. "The team worked better than it has in recent games. We passed and checked well and played an extremely physical game."

As far as Caps' Coach Tommy McVie was concerned, his team, which took 32 shots on goal, was defeated by Toronto goalie Gord McRae.

"If we'd have run into a cold goalie rather than a hot one, the outcome would have been different," he said.

Both coaches agreed that Darryl Sittler, Toronto's captain, put the game out of reach for Washington with a goal at 19:59 of the second period when the Caps trailed 2-1.

"We skated stride-for-stride with them until Sittler's goal," McVie said. "After the score reached 3-1, we just couldn't get back in."

Toronto took the early lead of a power play goal at 13:16 of the first period by Salming. The Caps came back to tie the score on a power play goal by Bob Sirtis at 4:20 of the second period.

The Maple Leafs got goals in the final period by Scott Garland and Claire Alexander.

Blues , Seals 2

Red Berenson and Claude Larose each scored twice to power St. Louis past California, which got offbeat goals from Dennis Maruk and former Blues skater Gary Sabourin.

Maruk received credit for his goal when his shot hit the skate of the Blues' Bob McMillan and deflected into the net. Sabourin scored on a long slapshot as teammate Bob Girard lay atop St. Louis goalie Ed Johnston in the net.

Referee Bob Meyers ruled that Blues defenseman Bob Gassoff shoved Girard into the net and permitted the tally.

Claremont booters blank Damien, 3-0

By SEAN SULLIVAN
PB Correspondent

Showing very little offense in the first half, Claremont High erupted for three goals within 15 minutes after intermission to down host Damien, 3-0, in the SAL soccer showdown Monday night.

Going into the game the two squads were tied for the lead as Claremont (9-1-1, 13-4-1 overall) was upset last Friday by Garey.

"If a loss can ever be considered good, our loss to Garey was," offered Claremont mentor Otto Rieger, "if we had beaten Garey, we would have come out flat tonight."

The Wolfpack booters had trouble penetrating the host's defense in the early going and were unable to get in good shooting position.

But the visitors' explosion started within the first five minutes of the second half as junior Dave Anderson booted one in assisted by senior Bob Scarcia.

As the defending SAL champs continued to dominate offensively in the second half, Rieger saw his club score twice within three minutes.

Scarcia, who was credited with the first assist, took a pass from Jerry Van Zee and kicked in the second goal.

Shortly after, sophomore Doug Jollymour passed to Jim Todd who accounted for the final score of the evening.

"Scarcia played his best game tonight in his three years at Claremont High School," complimented Rieger, "along with our defense, he was incredible."

"I didn't expect Damien to be that tough defensively," continued Rieger, "they were very aggressive."

The Spartans came out charging in the early going as Wolfpack goalie Casey Roberts can attest. The hosts had several breakaways by Ruben Lopez but couldn't muster a goal.

Midway through the period, Spartan sophomore Mike D. Hunter took two shots that almost made it into the goal had not Roberts been standing in the path of the ball.

Senior Rick Davis almost put the first score on the board on an excellent pass from Lopez but almost isn't good enough.

The victory puts the Wolfpack out in front all by their lonesome in their trek toward a fifth straight SAL soccer title.

Wednesday the Wolfpack hosts Montclair and the Spartans (8-13, 11-3-3 overall) travel to Ganesha. Both games start at 2:30.

Chaffey baseballers enjoy third victory

Chaffey College recorded its third win of the baseball season Monday, 8-2 over visiting Canyons College.

The Panthers got all the runs they really needed in the first two innings. After a single run in the first stanza, they broke loose for four in the second.

Murray Daniels singled. Bobby Branchetti doubled in one run. Rod Weigan singled in another and Rick Munoz tripled in a pair.

Munoz was the Panther's leading hitter with a triple and two singles.

Chaffey, 3-1, was slated to play at Antelope Valley this afternoon at 1 p.m.

Garey shares wrestling title

A surprising turn of events has made the Garey High Vikings the San Antonio League wrestling co-champions along with the Upland Highlanders, who were mistakenly named the sole champs at the league finals Saturday at Claremont.

A mistake which Garey coach John Marti discovered over the weekend was officially corrected by tournament director John Broncatello of Claremont Monday, and the change left both Upland and Garey with 107.5 points at the league finals.

That means the two teams tied for first in the finals, and that leaves them tied in the final league standings. Each team receives 7.5 points in the standings for the tie at the finals, and that gives Garey and Upland 12.5 points each in the league standings.

Claremont, fourth at the finals behind Montclair, dropped to third place in the standings with 12 points.

The change took place because Garey's Mario Olmos (106 pounds) pinned his opponent in the consolation finals, but was not awarded the two-point bonus for a pin.

The extra two points lifts Garey's score from 105.5 to 107.5 and accounts for the tie.

Sports briefs

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Boise State University's new head football Coach Jim Criner has picked all but one of his assistants.

Criner left an assistant coaching job at UCLA last week to take the job left by Tony Knap when he went to Nevada-Las Vegas.

Criner said Monday that Bill Dutton will be defensive coordinator. He had coached at California, Cal-Davis, Cal State-Los Angeles and Santa Ana Junior College.

The lineback coach will be Charlie Banker, a former assistant at Utah and former coach at Westminster in Salt Lake City.

John Ninowski, a former all-conference player with UCLA, will handle defensive backs.

Steve Oliver, an all-conference tight end for California and student assistant at UCLA last year will assist Nickel.

Criner said he will coach the offensive backs and a coach for the quarterbacks and receivers will be named later.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Friars signed Rod Laver to a contract Monday which makes the former Australian Davis Cupper "the highest paid player in World Team Tennis history," a spokesman said.

Laver, 37, is a four-time Wimbledon champion and the only player to win the U.S., British, French and Australian titles the same year twice—in 1962 and 1969.

His salary or length of his new contract were not disclosed.

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Alex Mayer, the No. 4 seed, advanced Monday to the second round of the National Indoor Open Tennis Championships with a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Tom Kreiss of Los Angeles.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Twelve-year National Basketball Association veteran Mel Counts will be placed on waivers by the New Orleans Jazz Tuesday, a source in the Jazz organization said.

After being drafted by Boston in the first round of the 1964 college draft, Counts played at Baltimore, Los Angeles, Phoenix and Philadelphia before being purchased by the fledgling Jazz last season. He was in eight NBA playoffs. The 7-foot center is 34 years old.

RALEIGH, N.C.(AP) — Robert "Bo" Rein, North Carolina State's new head football coach, says his "immediate goal is to maintain the winning atmosphere here."

Rein, offensive coordinator at Arkansas last season, was named Monday to succeed Lou Holtz, who signed with the New York Jets last week.

"The program here is geared to reaching the Top Ten and appearing in a major bowl," the 30-year-old Rein said. He signed a multi-year contract at $25,000-$33,000 per year.

Rein's appointment was no surprise. He spent three years as Holtz's offensive backfield coach from 1972-74 and was familiar to N.C. State athletes and officials.

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Toros, the losingest team in the World Hockey Association, fired Coach Bobby Baun and replaced him Monday with General Manager Gilles Leger.

Baun has been offered a different job in the club organiation, the team said, but Baun so far has declined to accept it.

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) — Aaron Boddie, a basketball player for Union University, collapsed during scrimmage Monday and was declared dead shortly after he was rushed to a hospital, officials said.

DALLAS (AP) — Texas A&M has officially appealed to the Southwest Conference a ruling by league faculty representatives that two of the Aggies top freshmen basketball players are ineligible for the rest of the season.

Texas A&M faculty representative Charles Samson Jr. served notice of the formal appeal late Monday afternoon, just hours after the Southwest Conference office in Dallas announced that players Karl Godine and Jarvis Williams had been declared ineligible.

Winters is doing well for himself

NEW YORK (AP) — For a man playing out of position, Brian Winters is doing all right for himself.

"My best position would probably be as the shooting guard, with someone else bringing up the ball," said Winters, the second-year pro of the Milwaukee Bucks. "The best part of my game is my shooting, and that way I wouldn't have to think so much about handling the ball and setting up plays.

"But it hasn't worked out that way."

After starring at South Carolina, Winters was drafted by the Los Angeles Lakers, who used him as a swing man, a combination small forward and big guard. But with Cazzie Russell at small forward and Gail Goodrich and Lucius Allen at guard, there wasn't much chance of Winters seeing much playing time with Los Angeles.

So he wasn't all that upset when he learned he was one of the four players—along with rookies Junior Bridgeman and Dave Myers and center Elmore Smith—the Lakers were sending for Milwaukee to obtain superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

"I enjoyed playing in Los Angeles, but there really wasn't much room for me on that team," said Winters, a superb shooter who learned his basketball on the playgrounds of Rockaway Beach, N.Y. "I wasn't really comfortable at forward, because I was constantly going up against bigger and stronger guys. And at guard, I could see there wasn't much of a chance to play."

But at Milwaukee, a team being totally rebuilt with the emphasis on youth, Winters got his chance. He won a starting guard spot in preseason training and played well enough to earn a starter's berth on the Western Conference All-Stars. He's currently averaging 17.5 points per game, second high among the Bucks.

"I knew when I came over here that I would get the chance, and that it was up to me to make the most of it," said the 6-foot-4 Winters. "It hasn't been easy working with a new team and a new system, but since there are so many new players here there wasn't that much pressure on me."

Winters has had to do much of the ballhandling in the Bucks backcourt, as Coach Larry Costello has been starting him alongside Bridgeman, a 6-5 player who was a forward in college.

"We actually have two rookies in the backcourt, because you can't really consider Brian's time with the Lakers a full season," said Costello. "We're young, we're inexperienced and we're going to make mistakes. But someday—hopefully someday soon—we're going to start playing to our potential, and we'll have something good going."

And Winters is anxious to be a part of it.

"It's exciting to be part of a situation like this, where a team is being rebuilt from the bottom up," he said. "We're all young players, and it will be exciting to see how far we can go."

DERBY CHAMP TO WEST — It appeared for a week or two last summer that Southland fans were going to get a look at Kentucky Derby champ Foolish Pleasure in Hollywood Park's $200,000 Swaps Stakes in late June.

Then the NYRA rolled the dice for bigger stakes with a $300,000 match against filly queen Ruffian. Trainer LeRoy Jolley was forced to remain in Gotham and picked up a check for 200 big ones when his feminine rival broke down shortly after the start of the match.

Now it appears that Foolish Pleasure soon may be headed West for a shot at another big prize — the $250,000 Santa Anita Handicap March 7. Jolley reportedly has a plane reserved to bring his four-year-old ace to California.

Meanwhile, his current Derby hope, Honest Pleasure, appears capable of bringing the youthful conditioner a second Derby crown. Honest Pleasure, national juvenile kingpin of '75, scored a 14-length win in an exhibition race last week while making his sophomore debut at Hialeah.

If Foolish Pleasure comes West and is successful, don't cross off the $200,000 Hollywood Derby April 17 as a final Kentucky Derby start for Honest Pleasure. Jolley likes California racing, just as much as he does the rich purses.

TRY IT AGAIN — Last year Native Empress, horse of the meeting at Los Alamitos in 1972-73 and one of the most popular quarter horses to campaign locally the past several seasons, was retired and bred to Go Man Go, the "Bold Ruler" of the quarter horse set. When she failed to get in foal, Native Empress was returned to racing and managed to win seven of 16 races and nearly $50,000.

The eight-year-old mare, whose career bankroll reads more than $200,000, will try again to become a mother in 1976, this time visiting the court of Cherokee Arrow.

Racing buffs will recall Cherokee Arrow, a thoroughbred full brother to Hempen, was considered a Kentucky Derby prospect in the spring of 1968 before injuries curtailed his career. Interestingly, Native Empress was herself sired by a thoroughbred, the Native Dancer stallion Dancing Dervish, who defeated Gun Bow in his only lifetime start.

So, her resulting foal, while being registered as a quarter horse, will in actuality be a three-quarter thoroughbred.

* * *

TOO EARLY BIRD? — For generations, horsemen have argued the theory of racing Thoroughbreds early in their two-year-old seasons. Many maintain it's a shortcut to early retirement, others believe it's the early bird that gets the worm.

Rod Dixon, the world's ranking 5,000-meter runner, perhaps has shed some light on the subject, relating early training among humans to their final achievements.

Asked why New Zealand runners have performed so well in distance events, Dixon opined, "Perhaps it's because we don't start running until a relatively late age. I didn't begin until I was 18. The same is true of Walker (world mile record-holder John Walker) and Snell (Peter Snell, the former New Zealand champ). Here in the States, you begin very early and I don't believe that's good."

* * *

COMING BACK — It wasn't long ago that such talented runners as Amerigo and Liberal Lady were the toast of turfdom's stakes world, sporting the colors of Mrs. Tilyou Christopher of Miami.

Mr. Christopher, who raced the horses in his wife's name, passed away a decade or so ago and the fortunes of the Christopher stable took a downward turn. Now it may be that the charming Miami matron may have another potential star in the barn.

Ameri Flyer, a grandson of Amerigo, won the Gold Coast Handicap last November at Calder Race Course and turned in perhaps his most impressive effort as a fast-finishing fourth in the recent Bouganvillea at Hialeah.

While favored Toonerville was scoring a handy triumph, Ameri-Flyer was lapped on grass aces One on the Aisle and London Company, the runners-up at the finish of the mile and three-sixteenths turf test. And his strong come-from-behind style could make him dangerous in such longer grass classics as Hollypark's $200,000 Invitational and $100,000 Century and the San Juan Capistrano at Santa Anita. Amerigo won the last named and Mrs. Christopher is considering a return to the West Coast.

* * *

JUST IN TIME — While Santa Anita officials were battling to "save" their race track during the recent storm, the wet weather was just what the doctor ordered for Hollywood Park in Inglewood.

A $200,000 renovation of the mile track at Hollypark had just been completed when the first rain drops started to fall. It was a most welcome addition to the revamped surface.

The seven-furlong chute had not been completed, but the main oval took the water well and the timely downpour should benefit the new surface, which Hollypark officials believe will be the finest in the nation when the 1976 season begins Apr. 9.

AROUND THE OVALS — Crowd estimates by management were low for each of the final two nights of the Los Alamitos quarter horse session, which combined attracted 19,012 patrons . . . Wednesday night, a shortage of mutuel clerks caused many of the races to be delayed five to 10 minutes beyond post time and Thursday evening, getaway night, the situation was nearly as bad . . . Thoroughbred trainer Neil Drysdale, developer of Forceten, took in the action at Los Al Wednesday evening and reported if he had to do it again he probably would not run Forceten over a track like Santa Anita was last Sunday for the Strub Stakes . . . "That had to be the worst racing surface I've ever seen," he said . . . Francisco (Paco) Mena, regular rider for three-year-old star Telly's Pop, has been on a tear recently at Santa Anita and is now pushing Bill Shoemaker for third place in the jockey standings . . . A true mudlark, Paco booted home eight winners over "off" tracks last week and maintained his hot pace through the first couple of programs this week.

Indiana escapes again

By Associated Press

Indiana, the college basketball team with 51 varieties of successful recipes, found a 52nd against Purdue.

—Start with a red-hot Boilermaker, add an 11-point first-half deficit for flavor, then throw in your surprise ingredient: a bench with very little seasoning.

—Place ingredients in a pressure cooker.

—At halftime, put the Boilermaker in a dressing room and let it cool for 15 minutes. Serve with some hot shooting of your own in the second half.

Hoosiers' Coach Bobby Knight, master chef of a 32-game Big Ten winning string, used the concoction to advantage Monday night when Scott May and Quinn Buckner got into early foul trouble and topranked Indiana was looking up from a 27-16 score. Knight called on four reserves, who brought the Hoosiers within two points late in the opening period.

"At halftime, the coach just told us to play our game and stay hot," observed May, who scored just six points in the first half but finished with 26.

When the second half began, the Hoosiers took off on a 10-2 surge that gave them the lead for good in what finished as a 74-71 triumph over Purdue. Indiana led 58-48 with 11 minutes remaining before the Boilermakers came within one on a jump shot in the closing seconds.

"But I felt really confident in the last minute that we would win," added May. And win they did—two free throws by May with two seconds remaining insuring Coach Knight's reputation as the top cook in college basketball these days.

The victory was the 52nd straight in regular season play for the Hoosiers, 22-0 this season and 13-0 in the conference. Purdue dropped to 8-5 in Big Ten play, 13-9 over-all.

Seven other Top Twenty teams played Monday night. No. 2 Marquette clubbed Tulane 75-63; eighth-ranked Notre Dame bopped Butler 92-79; Auburn upset ninth-rated Tennessee 73-72 in overtime; No. 10 Alabama topped Mississippi 78-70; Michigan, ranked 15th, blasted Eastern Michigan 94-76; No. 16 St. John's, N.Y., trimmed Seton Hall 68-63, and DePaul surprised No. 18 Virginia Tech 73-65.

Marquette, 20-1, ran its winning streak to 10 games behind 23 points by Earl Tatum. The Warriors have won at least 20 games in each of their last 10 seasons.

Notre Dame was paced by Adrian Dantley's 27 points, although Butler's Wayne Burris led all scorers with 30.

Eddie Johnson scored with six seconds left to tie the game, then hit three free throws in the last 10 seconds of overtime to lift Auburn past Tennessee.

Leon Douglas scored 35 points to help Alabama take the Southeastern Conference lead— thanks to Auburn's victory. Rickey Green scored 25 points and Phil Hubbard 24 as Michigan pounded Eastern Michigan for the 10th time in a row.

George Johnson scored 20 points to lead St. John's, and Joe Ponsetto scored 13 of his 17 points in the second half to lead DePaul from behind to its seesaw victory over Virginia Tech.

Connors keeps a tighter rein

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Jimmy Connors aims to keep a tighter rein on himself this year than in 1975, when he was disappointed in the results despite big financial gains.

Connors, 23, lost at Wimbledon and at Forest Hills in the finals of each, though he did capture two singles challenge matches and one in doubles, which boosted his bank account.

The three challenges netted him more than $400,000.

He admits he didn't train the way he had previously and the outspoken lefthander says it won't happen again.

"I was messing around too much last year, that's true," he said in an interview. "I can mess around the night before a big match but the things I do two or three weeks before finally caught up with me."

Connors has broken with his longtime adviser, Bill Riordan, although the latter still is a co-promoter of the Feb. 28 challenge match in Las Vegas against Manuel Orantes of Spain.

Orantes was the victor against Connors at Forest Hills in the U.S. championships and now goes in a $250,000 winner-take-all challenge.

"I hate to lose more than I like to win," Connors said. "The way these guys acted after they beat me told me little secrets."

He referred to Arthur Ashe at Wimbledon and Orantes at Forest Hills but didn't quote them. Jimmy had won both events in 1974.

Connors, trying to tone down his brashness, added: "So you get down to work so they won't beat you anymore. I worked hard on my tennis when I was playing matches, but I never did anything outside of that. My training habits kind of went bad for six months or so."

The Connors romance with Chris Evert, the queen of women's tennis, appears at an end.

"The press kind of made our relationship, you know, and I've got to say the press ruined it," Connors said. "It's kind of tough to go to dinner, sitting down to have dinner and have a guy with a camera over here and a guy with a little tape recorder sitting over there.

"We say 'shucks' and it's in the paper the next day. I can agree that maybe my life and her private life is of interest to some people and what we do off the court is interesting. But I think there is a point in everything where timing is most important."

Heading for the National Indoor Championships at Salisbury, Md., he said: "I'll train this year like I trained every other year except last year."

He is seeking an unprecedented fourth straight title in the event.

"I have played tennis for years and I have had one year off mentally, and that was last year," he said.

"It kind of makes you wonder—if I can get to the finals of everything when I'm horsing around and not training and not concentrating, what happens when I put my mind to it?

"After you have an unbelievable year like I had in 1974, (a lot of athletes) probably go out and feel that they don't have to work and train as hard. They just go out and play the matches. Which is true. I got by a lot of matches on the confidence on the year I had before.

"But that's not what it takes. Everybody else is out there breaking his behind to beat me. And then I have a little off day and they play above their standard and it puts extra pressure on me and on my body."

Claiming he isn't necessarily striving to make new friends, Jimmy says "I'm still playing my own game, the way I was taught."

But Connors is more communicative and even affable. He knows he isn't well liked by the sports writers because of his brash attitude of the past.

"They're not too well liked in my books either," he said. "I was labeled when I was 15 or 16. That's difficult. I was labeled when I first started playing in the men's division. I played like nobody else played. I'd walk, talk and slap my leg and talk to myself. I would do things that people probably hadn't seen in tennis for awhile.

Jang, Moffett pace Mt. Baldy

The host Mt. Baldy Aquatics team placed third in the Mt. Baldy Aquatics Novice Invitational Tournament. Tidelanders Aquatics won the championship with 138 points followed by the Santa Fe Springs Aquatics (131) and the Mt. Baldy Aquatics (123).

More than 200 swimmers from 27 Southern California clubs competed in the meet.

Curtis Jang (boys 9-10) and John Moffett (boys 11-12) led the Mt. Baldy team by winning four events apiece.

Jang took the first place trophy in the backstroke, 36.0; butterfly, 34.2; freestyle, 30.9; and individual medley, 1:19.9. Moffett won the backstroke, 34.1; breast, 36.1; freestyle, 29.5; and individual medley, 1:12.4.

Leila Fernandez won the other first place trophy for the Mt. Baldy team by winning the breast in a time of 36.9 in the girls (13-14) competition.

Other trophy winners for Mt. Baldy Aquatics were: Heather Ryan (girls 6-under), Krista Umgelter (girls 6-under), Kathie Haase (girls 7-8), Lori Castleburg (girls 7-8), Donna Sedgewick (girls 11-12), Greg Histed (boys 11-12), Pete Fuller (boys 11-12), Charles Slosberg (boys 13-14) and Dale Shiroma (boys 13-14).

Information on joining the Mt. Baldy Aquatics is available by calling Mrs. Carolyn Easton at 987-2886.

Oregon's Ron Lee nears Pac-8 mark

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Oregon's senior guard, Ron Lee, has become the Pacific-8 Conference's No. 2 all-time basketball scorer, and needs only 63 points to eclipse the conference record held by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Lee has scored 1,993 points during his four-year career and 988 points in conference play.

With five conference games to play, Lee, who is averaging 19.4 points per game, should have no trouble topping Abdul-Jabbar's league mark of 1,050 points. However, only a herculean effort could top Abdul-Jabbar's career scoring record of 2,325 points for all games.

With Lee's help, Oregon has posted the conference's longest winning streak this season — seven games. When the Ducks began to move Jan. 24, they were 8-9 overall and 1-3 in league play. Oregon averaged 16 points more than its opponents in five of the seven games.

Conference leader UCLA, meanwhile, spurred on by a 104-point outburst against Washington State last weekend, has overtaken the Washington Huskies as the league's top scoring team. The Bruins are now averaging 82.7 points per game to the Huskies' 82.4.

California taxpayers carrying heavy burden

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Californians will pay an estimated $57 billion in taxes during 1976, or about 38 cents out of every dollar earned.

And the biggest share of the tax dollar will go to the level of government that most people see the least — the federal government.

Those are highlights of a survey by The Associated Press of taxes Californians face during the 1976 calendar years.

Exact figures are hard to find. Most estimates are tied to unpredictable factors in the economy. Some federal tax collections are not divided by state.

There is also disagreement among the sources surveyed as to what is a tax.

Some foes of big government count every dollar collected by government, including postage stamps, local bus fares and utility bills from publicly owned electric companies. Those fees for services, which are not counted in this survey, would add nearly $10 billion more to the total.

But the $57-billion figure does count $12 billion in Social Security and unemployment insurance payments, which some experts classify as insurance rather than taxes. Since the payments are mandatory, they were counted with the taxes.

The tax bite on Californians exclusive of Social Security and unemployment insurance deductions is $45 billion, or 29 cents out of every dollar.

About two-thirds of the taxes which Californians face in 1976 will be levied directly on individual taxpayers. The state Department of Finance estimates that Californians will pay $17.37 billion in federal and state personal income taxes.

Property taxes, sales taxes, Social Security payments and dozens of lesser taxes such as gasoline, cigarette, liquor and gift taxes nearly double the total of direct taxes on individuals.

About a third of the total tax bill will be paid by business. Those taxes represent up to a third of the ultimate cost of goods and services for consumers.

Here is the tax outlook for Californians in the 1976 calendar year:

FEDERAL — Californians will pay about $14.3 billion in personal income taxes to the federal government this year. California business will pay at least $4.5 billion in corporate income taxes.

Social Security payments by individuals and employers in California will be close to $10 billion. Miscellaneous federal taxes —customs, excise, estate, gift and dozens more —

The state business tax rate was 5.5 per cent a decade ago. Now it is 9 per cent. The top individual income tax bracket was 7 per cent. Now it is 11 per cent.

The reason individual taxes have increased so much faster is that the business rate applies the same 9 per cent at all profit levels, and therefore grows only in direct proportion to increased profits.

The state individual income tax, however, is very progressive, ranging from zero to 11 per cent. It doubles or triples with modest increases.

Bell, director of finance for Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., says the issue of whether personal income tax receipts are leaping too far ahead of bank and corporation tax receipts is "a very tough question."

"You have to weigh what other states levy, and you have to consider that 48 per cent that the federal government levies. States are relatively limited in the corporation taxes they can levy" because of the federal rate, Bell said.

But the direct corporate income tax is only part of the business tax story in California.

California business will pay nearly $5 billion this year for the employer's 50 per cent share of the Social Security assessments.

Unemployment and disability insurance programs will cost California employers another $1.9 billion this year, the California Taxpayers Association estimates.

The general taxes which burden the individual also have a major impact on business.

The property tax is local government's biggest source of revenue, at over $8 billion. About 65 per cent of the property tax is paid by commercial properties, or $5.5 billion this year.

The sales tax is the biggest single source of revenue for the state, some $3.9 billion this year. Business buys nearly one-third of the taxable goods in the state, and will pay about $1.1 billion in sales taxes.

Commercial users also buy about one-third of the gasoline and other fuels used on California highways, consume about 55 per cent of the electric power and buy 40 per cent of the insurance written and taxed in California.

License, franchise, payroll taxes and other special levies also fall heavily on business.

According to a California Taxpayers Association study, business paid 50.7 per cent of the $16.6 billion in state and local taxes collected in California in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

The total of state and local taxes in the coming year will be closer to $23 billion, with every major tax up. The taxes that fall most heavily on business have declined slightly in their share of the total, pointing to a state and local tax on business of at least $11 billion.

He knew when he was licked

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Deputies say a jail inmate who broke his legs trying to escape knew exactly what to do. He called for help — on the walkie talkie he stole from the sheriff's office before fleeing.

The officers said Danny Westmoreland, 23, awaiting trial on rape charges, was buffing a jail floor Tuesday when he decided to let himself out the window on the electric cord. He slipped and fell three stories to a parking lot, breaking his limbs.

He managed to crawl a block from the jail, then gave it up, using the walkie talkie to message, "Unit to dispatch, send ambulance . . ." He got his ambulance, and a flock of deputies and police.

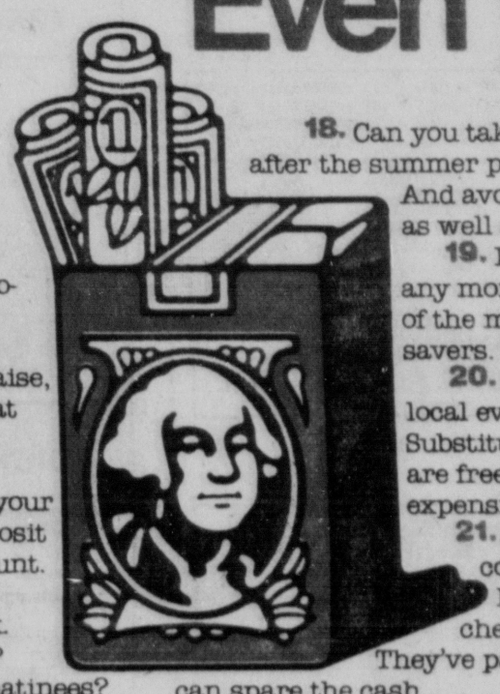
With these ideas, anyone can save money. Even you.



How to start saving:

1. If you kick a costly habit, like smoking, save the cost. A two-packs-a-day smoker can wind up $400 a year richer.

2. When you get your next raise, pretend you didn't. And stash that amount in your savings account. Every payday.

3. Each evening, hide away your loose change. Once a month, deposit your hoard in your savings account.

4. If you buy your lunch, brown-bag it several days a week.

5. Spending a lot on movies? How about going to lower-cost matinees?

6. Spending a lot on records and books? Visit your public library.

7. Spending a lot at posh restaurants? Newspaper columnists often cover inexpensive ethnic restaurants. Dine in many languages.

8. Easy way to be more miserly: retire all credit cards in a good, safe hiding place one week each month.

9. Save automatically. Tell UCB how much, how often. Ask us and we'll take it out of your UCB checking account, put it into savings.

10. Save that windfall money. Cash gifts from Uncle Fred. Tax refunds from Uncle Sam. Bonuses. Dividends. Overtime.

11. When you make the last payment on the car, the furniture, the loan, continue the "payments." To your UCB savings account.

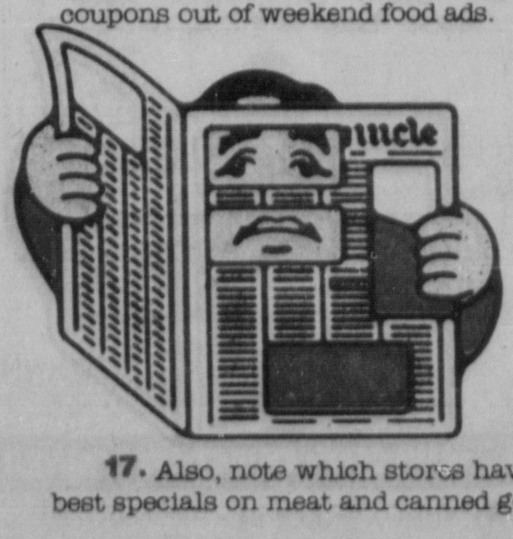
12. Don't be a loosewad. Squander less cash by carrying less.

13. When you have lunch or dinner "on the company," save what you'd have spent on yourself.

14. Try to get up a car pool. Bank 14¢ for every mile you don't drive.

15. Some parents save at used-clothing exchanges. They swap what's good but outgrown for another kid's good-but-outgrown.

16. Read the Thursday paper with scissors in hand. Clip money-saving coupons out of weekend food ads.



17. Also, note which stores have the best specials on meat and canned goods.

18. Can you take your vacation after the summer peak has passed? And avoid peak prices as well as the crowds?

19. Nobody budgets any more. Except some of the most successful savers. Try it.

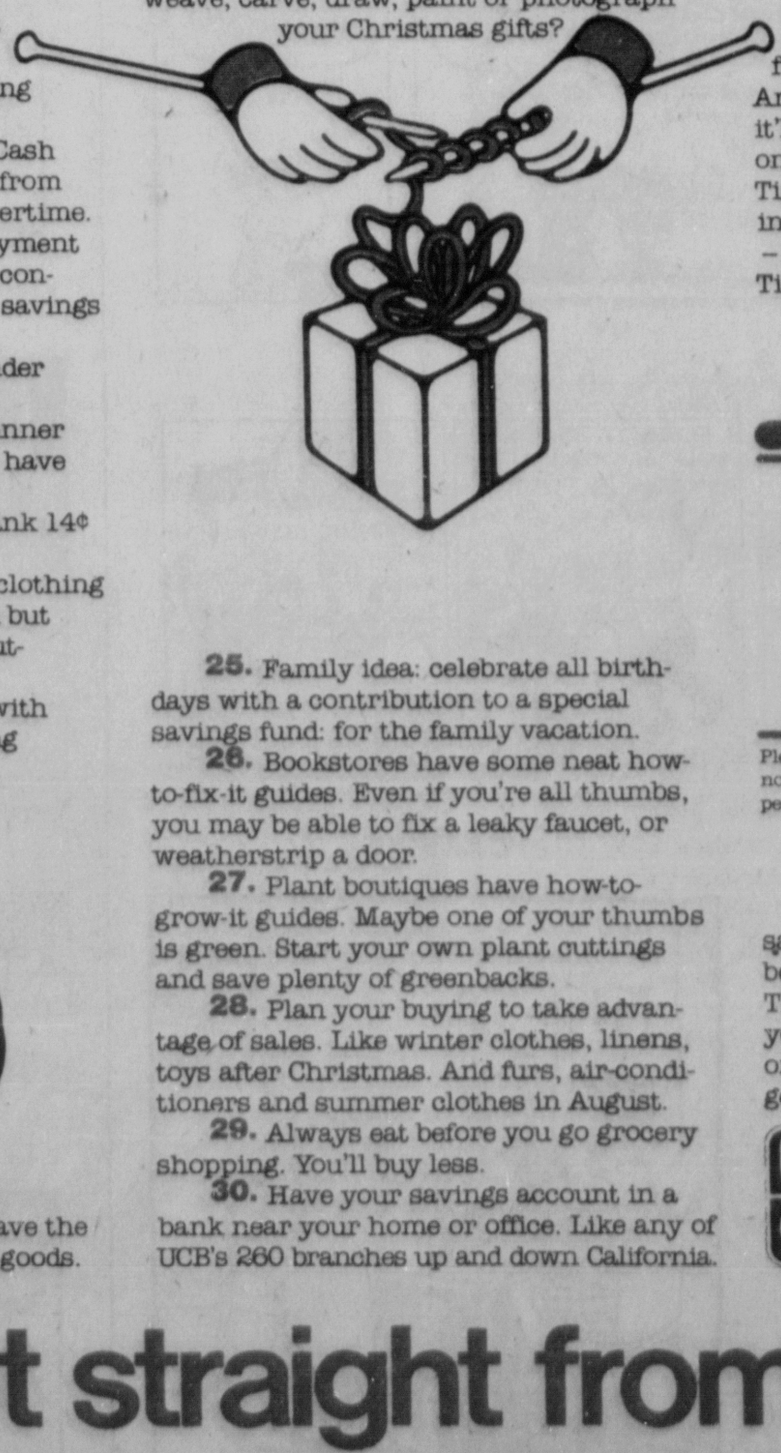
20. Follow upcoming local events in the paper. Substitute things that are free and fun for expensive entertainment.

21. Some retired couples put all Medicare refund checks into savings. They've paid the doctor and can spare the cash.

22. If you're delayed turning in your expense account, maybe you can bank that money when you get it.

23. Try a "No" Week every so often. No dining out. No socializing after work. No bowling night. Instead, curl up with a good book, enjoy a fatter nest egg.

24. Can you embroider, crochet, knit, weave, carve, draw, paint or photograph your Christmas gifts?



25. Family idea: celebrate all birthdays with a contribution to a special savings fund: for the family vacation.

26. Bookstores have some neat how-to-fix-it guides. Even if you're all thumbs, you may be able to fix a leaky faucet, or weatherstrip a door.

27. Plant boutiques have how-to-grow-it guides. Maybe one of your thumbs is green. Start your own plant cuttings and save plenty of greenbacks.

28. Plan your buying to take advantage of sales. Like winter clothes, linens, toys after Christmas. And furs, air-conditioners and summer clothes in August.

29. Always eat before you go grocery shopping. You'll buy less.

30. Have your savings account in a bank near your home or office. Like any of UCB's 260 branches up and down California.

How much should you save?

You know why you should save – life has a way of surprising all of us.

How much you should save depends on what you have salted away in good investments. How well shielded you are with medical and life insurance, and employee benefits like pension money. How easily your spouse could get a job. And whether there's a Daddy Warbucks among your relatives.

But enough hedging. Most financial experts think you should have at least two months' pay tucked away where: 1) It's safe; 2) It's immediately reachable; 3) It earns its keep with good interest.

Where should you save?

Consider a UCB Regular Savings Account for your emergency fund. Why? At UCB, your money earns 5% annually, with interest earned and compounded daily. No minimum opening deposit is required. There's no charge for withdrawals. And you can have automatic deposits made regularly from your UCB checking account.

How can your money earn more?

After you've built up a solid rainy-day fund, it's smart to save for sunnier days. And to invest the additional money where it'll sit longer and earn more. For example, one of our time-deposit plans. With each Time CD (Certificate of Deposit), you invest a minimum sum for a specific time – 30 days to 10 years. Here's our current Time CD lineup:

Annual Interest Rate	Minimum Amount Per Certificate	How Long You Agree to Leave the Money.
5%	$500	30 to 90 days
5½%	$500	90 days to 1 year
6%	$500	1 to 2½ years
6½%	$500	2½ to 4 years
7¼%	$1,000	4 to 10 years
7½%	$1,000	6 to 10 years

Please note that interest rates can be changed without notice. And that Federal law requires a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

What are you waiting for?

We've tried to tell you more about saving than you ever found in a bank ad before. Why not try some of the tips above? Then, when you find you really can save, you might bring some of the moola in to one of our 260 branches. We're trying to get ahead in the world, too.

Toy market to offer controversial items

NEW YORK (AP) — While parents are still recovering from the cost of Christmas 1975, toymakers are looking ahead to the profits of Christmas 1976. And consumers will find some potentially controversial items on the market.

Among the toys on display as the manufacturers started showing their wares to buyers on Monday were so-called "anatomically correct" baby boy dolls. Two major manufacturers, Ideal and Mattel, have included dolls with genitalia in their 1976 offerings.

Don't the companies expect criticism? "Yes, but we think the time is right," said a spokesman for Ideal, which is showing a "drink and wet" doll named "Joey Stivic" after Archie Bunker's grandson.

A spokesman for Mattel said the company tried to import such a doll several years ago, but ran into protests. Since then, the spokesman said, the climate of opinion has changed. Besides, he added, "we're not calling attention to a particular feature. It's a doll."

Real-life figures are again starring in the toy lines and one of the most unusual is J. J. Armes, a flamboyant Texas private detective who lost both hands in a dynamite accident when he was a boy.

Ideal is offering a J. J. Armes doll — seven inches high, complete with an assortment of mechanical hands. The doll will sell for about $6. A gadget-filled model of a mobile van similar to one that Armes uses will sell for $12.

Armes, who bills himself as the world's most expensive private detective and claims never to have left a case unsolved, refused to say how much he was getting for the association with Ideal. "That's one thing I never disclose," he said. "I don't like to talk about money."

Armes denied that the doll — which comes equipped with a miniature gun attached to a claw-like prosthetic device — would encourage violence. Doesn't he think a child playing with the doll might decide he wanted a gun of his own?

"That's just like asking me, 'Are kids going to be cutting their hands off to duplicate J. Armes?' and that's self-explanatory. Kids would not do this."

Armes said he did not think that he was capitalizing on his handicap by allowing a doll to be made in his image. "It's to inspire people what can be done in spite of loss of anything."

Many toys being offered have commercial tie-ins and are being backed by expensive promotion campaigns.

The snake charmer of India plays his flute while the deadly cobra rises up and sways slowly back and forth as if dancing to the music.

The truth is, the snake charmer isn't charming the snake at all! He is just pretending that his music is making the snake perform.

Like all snakes, the cobra is deaf, so it cannot even hear the music the snake charmer is playing. When the cobra is being "charmed" it is only holding itself on guard.

It comes out of the basket in which it is kept, keeping its body in an erect striking position while following the slow, swaying movements of the snake charmer. It would do the same thing without music.

Yet few snake charmers trust themselves to dodge the cobra's deadly fangs should the cobra ever strike. Snake charmers often pull out a cobra's fangs.

Sometimes they "milk" the venom from the cobra's poison glands before a performance to reduce the amount of venom it can release.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, Ca 95061.

Scripps books lyric tenor

Lyric tenor Robert Grayson will present a recital in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, at 8:15 p.m. Feb. 27. Admission is free.

Grayson has sung with the Santa Fe Opera, the City of Angels Opera Company, the San Diego Opera Company, the Euterpe Opera and many other distinguished operatic groups.

A lecturer in voice at Cal State Fullerton and at Scripps College, he will sing "Songs of Travel" by Vaughan-Williams, "Quatre Melodies" by Dinu Lipatti, songs by Schubert and arias from "Carmen", "Il Tabarro" and "L'Italiana in Algeri."

He will be accompanied on the piano by Thomas Kosakowski.

In recent appearances with the Santa Fe Opera in New Mexico, Grayson was reviewed for his role as Cavaradossi in Tosca.

At the time of his debut with the City of Angeles Opera in 1973, Los Angeles Times music critic Martin Bernheimer wrote, "An exceptional voice: a graceful lyric tenor with a spectacular top extension, named Robert Grayson."

Bach fete on KPCS

Southern California music students 11 to 22 will present a Bach program on station KPCS, 89.3 FM, from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday.

The students took part in the Southern California Junior Bach Festival last month.

On the Music of the Masters series they will perform on piano, organ, flute, violin, viola and cello.

Tryouts set at Bowl

Applications are now being accepted for the 25th annual Redlands Bowl Young Artists Auditions. Deadline is March 15.

Preliminaries will be held April 10 at Watchorn Hall on the University of Redlands campus, beginning at 1 p.m. Finals will be that same evening, with the winners to appear in the Redlands Bowl on June 25.

Contestants must be residents of San Bernardino County or Riverside County, or Los Angeles County to the western boundary of the city of Pomona, or students in school in those areas, or currently studying with a Redlands teacher.

Eligibility is divided into two groups — junior — (instrumental) 15 to 18 inclusive, (voice) 15 to 20 inclusive; and senior — (instrumental) 19 to 26 inclusive, (voice) 21 to 26 inclusive.

The winner in each junior group will receive $50 award; the winner in each senior group will receive $100 award, at a presentation on the evening of the bowl concert June 25. No winner of a previous year is eligible in the same group.

Application blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Raymond A. Beeler, Redlands Community Music Association, Box 466, Redlands, 92373.

'The Rimers of Eldritch"

Poly offers drama

By Joseph H. Firman

Lanford Wilson's "The Rimers of Eldritch," which opened Friday in a small arena behind the mainstage of Cal Poly's University Theater, is an intriguing and moving drama of the life in a crumbling Midwestern town, a carefully textured tapestry of youth and old age that contains elements of "Our Town," "Under Milkwood," "Picnic" and "Peyton Place."

"Rimers" plays at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and the following weekend. Seating in the backstage bleachers is limited.

The drama starts at a murder trial cum church service — the parishioners double as jury, the minister as judge — and concludes with a seduction that seems destined to lead to another murder, or at least another play. There is a bewildering interplay of flashbacks, repetition of phrases and whole scenes, overlapping time sequences, a counterpoint of action and voices that is as intricate and challenging as a jigsaw puzzle.

As with the plays listed above, the charm of "Rimers" lies in the people, and the viewers get to know them well during the evening. Director John Dennis has chosen his cast carefully and drawn convincing performances from the young actors. There is no star; the production is a steadfastly ensemble effort.

Lynda Creagan as the romantic Eva Jackson does an excellent job in the most challenging role, her pixie face a mirror of youthful longing, young love, sorrow and fear. Steve Morris gives sturdy, sensitive suport as Robert Conklin, who shares her poetic rambles.

Sue Gapper is delectable as the pouty, adventuresome teen-ager, Patsy, with more sex appeal than brains, and Katha Feffer shows spirit and warmth as her confidant, Lena. Paul Liddell offers a powerful performance as the old black, Skelly, maligned and misunderstood by the 70 residents of the decaying town. His monologues with his old houn' dawg are quite poignant.

Jeannine Lambeth gives an excellent characterization of the ancient Mary Windrod— college girls are not usually successful in portraying senility. Nelly, her daughter, is played with anguished vigor by Diana Hamblin. Terry Vreeland's Josh is the prototype of the oafish young man of unsavory inclinations, and Dave Miller as the judge-preacher is strident, sincere and convincing. Wendi Radford's Cora is sensual, and Leon Fricke as Walter, is a virile and persuasive young stud.

Contributing intelligent portrayals are Dianne Hollen, Robin Clark, Lucinda Dronberger, Barry Moore, Barbara Edivan and Steve Gaskins.

"Rimers" plays on a spectacular set by Michael Devine, a drab, authentic, multi-level stage offering six or seven playing areas imaginatively spaced and interlocked for flowing action.

"Rimers," as presented by the Cal Poly drama department, is a rewarding evening.

Voice recital slated

Soprano Georgia Warden and contralto Dawn Jones will present a recital in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Friday. Admission is free.

The program includes duets by Purcell, Handel, Schumann and Humperdinck, as well as a group of lieder, by Schubert, operatic arias by Puccini and Verdi, and the song cycle, "A Charm of Lullabies," by Benjamin Britten. The two soloists will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Margery Briggs, a member of the music Faculty at Pomona College and vocal coach to both the soloists.

Mrs. Warden has appeared as soloist with the San Francisco Opera, the Los Angeles Guild Opera and many other opera companies on the West Coast. She has won awards from Cal State Los Angeles, Redlands Bowl and the UCLA Committee of Fine Arts. She is a teacher in the Claremont Unified School District.

Mrs. Jones has been a member of and soloist with numerous choral organizations in New York City and with the Louis Ronfeldt Chorale in Claremont. She is contralto soloist at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Pomona.

Cut 224 miles from planned freeway setup

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Highway Commission says another 224 miles was sliced from California's planned freeway system during 1975.

The commission now plans to have a total of 7,479 miles of freeway, of which 5,528 are already built. Another 299 miles could be cut, the commission said Monday.

Barrister Ball

Event is set

Glendora Country Club will be the setting for the 13th annual Barristers' Ball to be presented by the Citrus Valley Lawyers Wives.

The event, Bicentennial Celebration, is scheduled Saturday evening, according to ball chairman, Mrs. Graham Talbott.

Members and their guests will be welcomed by the hostesses in Bicentennial dress at 6:30 p.m. for cocktails preceding dinner.

Eastern dancers will perform during the evening and Drew Dobosh, a caricature artist, will do caricature drawings during the evening. Dancing will be to the music of The La Rae Combo.

Further information and reservations may be obtained by calling Mrs. Darrell Moore, 213-966-6329 or Mrs. Graham Talbott, 624-2640.

Assisting with arrangements are Mmes. John Nichols, Edmond O'Brien, Robert McCoy, Waldo Brown, John Tolin, George Thompson, William Anderson and Mrs. John Selters.

Proceeds from the ball are distributed by the group each year on Law Day, May 1, in the form of scholarships for area law students and Legal Aid.

Contests open for area youth

Essay and poster contests are being conducted by the Pomona-Claremont Woman's Christian Temperance Union for valley students.

The deadline for entering is April 2.

The essay contest is being conducted in junior high and high school divisions. In junior high Division I, the subject is "total Abstinence — Our Watchword." Essays are to be kept to 300 to 400 words.

In senior high Division II, the subject is "Moderation Suggests Drug Abuse" and essays are to be kept to from 600 to 1,000 words.

Reference materials must be listed at the end of the each essay as bibliography and all direct quotes must be marked. They should not exceed 20 per cent of the essay length.

Each essay must include a separate page with the student's name, age, grade, school name and address and name of teacher.

There are three divisions in the poster contest. Division I is for boys and girls in fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Division II is for those in seventh, eighth and ninth grades,and Division III is for 10th, 11th and 12th graders.

Posters must be on alcohol, other narcotics and tobacco as they relate to problems in the home, social welfare, health, crime and safety.

They should be 22 inches by 14 inches with a one-inch margin on each side. Cutouts may be used on elementary and junior high posters but senior high students must do original work. No brand names may be used on posters.

Those who enter must paste an envelope on the back of their posters containing name, age, grade, name of teacher, room number, and name and address of the artist.

Essays and posters will become the property of the WCTU. All entries may be mailed to Mrs. Ethel Henning, 735 St. Paul St., Pomona 91767, or Mrs. Ina Pearl Bagwell, 338 Roosevelt St., Pomona 91767.

Local winners automatically will be entered in county contests, county winners in state contests and state winners in national contests.

Prizes in the local contest will be cash awards ranging from $1 to $15.

Pasadena story topic for Ebell

When members and guests of Ebell Club gather Friday for luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at Ebell clubhouse they will hear a program, "Pasadena — The First Hundred."

The speaker will be Oliver Prickett, a resident of Pasadena since 1906 with service to many community organizations over the years. He was given the Man of the Year award by the Salvation Army Advisory Board in 1974.

Mr. Prickett was a member of the Tournament of Roses board of directors for 10 years and in 1972 was made an honorary director.

He served as an officer or advisory board member of Red Cross, Pasadena Pioneer Association, Boy Scout Alumni Association, Linda Vista Association, Pasadena Junior League, Boys' Republic, Colt League Baseball and others.

Mr. Prickett is widely known for his many years of association with the Pasadena Community Playhouse, beginning with his days as a child actor. He served the Playhouse is many capacities over a 35-year span.

In the receiving line will be Mmes. Harold C. Dewey, Harold S. Edick, Ward M. Turney, Maurice G. Williams and Melvin L. Kern.

Family life

Ethel Kennedy would rather be known as a good mother than for her public service work. In her first in-depth magazine interview, Mrs. Kennedy says in the February Family Circle, "I just think we've lost what should be the main emphasis on motherhood and being good wives. People seem almost ashamed of it." Of herself, she continues, "I'd much rather go to my grave and have my children say of me that she was a good mother."

Family Circus

"That's very good, Grandma, but you forgot to color the duck's beak."

Lockheed payoff scandal dwarfs European cases

LONDON (AP) — West European corporations have been charged with payoffs, bribery and corruption but on nothing like the scale disclosed by the Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

In the most recent case, a Dutch public prosecutor joined defense lawyers in demanding that the agent of a French aviation company be acquitted of bribery charges for lack of evidence.

A French businessman contacted in an Associated Press survey raised a series of questions: What is corruption? Is it all right to take a business contact to dinner in the hope of winning an order or to provide him with a call girl? Or is it corruption only when it gets up to the level of millions of dollars in payoffs?

Some European governments are widely believed to help their nation's companies get business abroad considerably more than the U.S. government helps American corporations. This comes in the form of diplomatic pressure and exchange offers mainly, and some sources say it may mean that European corporations have less need to make payoffs.

European businessmen also have considerably less fear of investigation by their parliaments or press.

In Britain, for example, a royal commission on standards of conduct in public life was set up in December 1974. Nothing of any note has been heard from it since.

British newspapers are inhibited from investigating reports of corruption in high places by the country's Offical Secrets Act, which permits any civil servant to classify any document, no matter how innocuous. This makes its disclosure a criminal offense.

A country-by-country survey of business scandal follows:

BRITAIN — The biggest bribery scandal in recent years involved architect-contractor John Poulson, who was sentenced to a seven-year prison term on more than two dozen charges of corruption to obtain building contracts.

The affair blighted the career of the Conservative home secretary at the time, Reginald Maudling. Poulson testified that Maudling headed one of his companies but instead of being paid a salary, $57,200 was donated to his wife's pet theater project. Maudling denied any wrongdoing but resigned as home secretary because his ministry was responsible for supervising the police investigation of Poulson.

The most recent scandal involves Iran's charges this month that two officials of the big British sugar firm, Tate and Lyle International Ltd., and two Iranian trade undersecretaries worked together to defraud the Iranian government of $45 million by overpricing sugar contracts. Tate and Lyle, the parent company, denied "any allegations of fraud or corruption or anything else."

NORWAY-FRANCE — Premier Lars Korvalo of Norway admitted in 1973 that his government told the French firm Thompson-C.S.F. it would buy its Crotale antiaircraft missile if the French government agreed to an increase in the quota for imports of Norwegian aluminum into the European Common Market. The quota was raised from 190,000 to 250,000 tons. A motion in the Norwegian parliament to censure Korvalo's government was defeated.

THE NETHERLANDS — While the government was launching an investigation last week of claims that Prince Bernhard, Queen Juliana's husband, got $1.1 million from Lockheed, the prosecution and defense in an Amsterdam court joined in urging the acquittal of Johannes Botterman, 61, the Dutch representative of the French Dassault aviation company on charges of offering more than $700,000 in bribes to two members of the Dutch parliament to promote the sale of the company's Mirage jet fighters. The court is to announce its verdict Feb. 25.

ITALY — Under investigation are charges that Lockheed and international oil companies — Exxon, Gulf, Texaco, Mobil, Socal, Standard of Indiana, British Petroleum and Royal Dutch Shell — bribed officials and in some cases contributed to political parties to promote sales of their products or to obtain subsidies and tax concessions. The Exxon manager in Italy, Vincenzo Cassaniga, was alleged in U.S. Senate subcommittee hearings to have made payments of more than $20 million to political figures. Such contributions are legal in Italy, but the amounts must be disclosed.

WEST GERMANY — Aside from allegations involving former Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss in the Lockheed case, there have been no similar scandals in West Germany since the HS30 Scandal of the late 1950s. In that one, the state secretary, Otto Lenz, was alleged to have accepted bribes from the Swiss arms firm Hispano Suiza for the Christian Democratic party's coffers to promote sales of HS30 tanks. A parliamentary investigation split on party lines and the enquiry ended without result.

EASTERN EUROPE — According to reports from Moscow last year, the former director-general of a Soviet furniture-making group was executed for accepting bribes of 107,000 rubles (about $149,800 at the official exchange rate) from Walter Haefelin, the representative of a Swiss tool firm. Haefelin was said to have been sentenced to 10 years in jail.

In Romania, Ion Tudora, a buyer of farm machinery for the Agriculture Ministry, was executed by firing squad for accepting bribes of more than $100,000 from West German, French and Italian companies to promote the purchase of their products in 1973.

In Czechoslovakia, two government officials were sentenced to 12 and 13 years in prison for accepting bribes of under $50,000 from Austrian, Danish, West German and Swedish companies.

Pair to spend winter sleeping in a teepee

GALESBRUG, Ill. (AP) — Two Knox College students say they plan to spend two months in an Indian-style teepee to "... get a little closer to the meaning of the Bicentennial."

With canvas supplied by the college, the students built the eight-foot teepee on campus more than two weeks ago.

They cook and sleep in the teepee but use washroom facilities at their fraternity house and study at the college library.

Dan Keith, 22, a senior from Joliet, Ill., and Brian Fischer, 20, a junior from Schenectady, N.Y., have agreed that their experiment will end if they sleep one night in a heated building.

The students plan to rough it through the winter school term, which ends March 13.

The two crawl into sleeping bags at night to ward off the cold. Keith says the temperature has gone below zero more than once already. Meals — mainly hot dogs and steaks — are cooked over a fire inside the teepee.

Keith and Fischer say they wanted to experience the way the American Indians lived 200 years ago.

"We've seen a lot of the commercial ideas about the Bicentennial," said Fischer. "We felt that with the commercial outlook they really didn't get down to the basic point of the Bicentennial."

"The only real problem is waking up when it's real cold, but otherwise it's pretty comfortable," said Keith.

Intended recipients die before legal battle ends

MIAMI (AP) — When Mabel Conyne died five years ago at the age of 83, she left $5,513 to a senior citizens' center to buy a minibus for her elderly friends. But they were all dead by the time a court battle over her estate had ended.

The elderly people who were to have gotten use of the bus got a bad deal, said David Cerf, a lawyer representing Albert A. Trioani, whom Mrs. Conyne named to oversee purchase of the bus.

The minibus was eventually purchased, but it sat idle in the parking lot of Miami's Metropolitan Senior Center for a while and then was leased to another organization.

Ten days ago, it was sold for $3,000, a little more than half its original price, and the check was presented to the clerk of the probate court.

Mrs. Conyne, a private nurse and widow, used to play pinochle at the senior center two or three days a week. She was one of the few senior citizens with a car, so she chauffeured her fellow pinochle players.

In February 1970, Mrs. Conyne realized she was dying of cancer and wrote a new will so her friends would have transportation. She died a week later.

Merrill Calder, the husband of Mrs. Conyne's deceased daughter, contested the will.

The matter lingered in probate court for two years. Circuit Judge George Schulz dismissed Calder's petition in October 1973 and ordered the check drawn to the joint account of the Senior Centers of Dade County and Trioani, a member of the Metropolitan Senior Center.

But the argument continued. Trioani wanted the bus used exclusively by his center and Dr. Bruce Quint, executive director of the Senior Centers, wanted it to be shared by all eight senior citizen centers in the county.

Eventually, Judge Schulz was forced to intercede and sided with Trioani.

A shiny new van was brought into the parking lot of the Metropolitan Senior Center in May 1974. But officials said there was no money to insure the van or to hire a driver.

"The whole thing was cockeyed," Quint recalls.

Meanwhile, Calder filed another petition and again it was dismissed.

Finally, last October, the court ordered that the bus, which had been leased to the Jewish Home for the Aged, be appraised and sold and the money put back into a joint account held by the Senior Centers and Trioani — the same situation that existed two years earlier.

"Thank God, Mrs. Conyne never saw what happened," Trioani says.

Chinese mark year of dragon

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chinese New Year 4674, celebrated Jan. 31, ushered in the year of the Dragon. Oriental years are named for animals and the belief is that the animal year in which a person is born influences personality.

A formula for determining who is a Dragon Person has been worked out by Chun King, Oriental food producer. If your age at your next birthday can be divided by 12, you were born in a Dragon Year — such as 1964, 1952, 1940 or 1928. According to Oriental reckoning, Dragon People are subtle, secretive, passionate and physically healthy. Well-known Dragon People include Sonny Bono, Bing Crosby, Scott Joplin, Tito of Yugoslavia and Betty Furness.

Russia's Kosygin was born in the Year of the Dragon. Brezhnev is a Horse (independent, impulsive, sports-loving), and Chairman Mao is a Snake (deep and intelligent). Gerald Ford was born in the Year of the Ox (leadership ability, good parent), whereas Kissinger is a Boar (a born problem solver).

Not plastic, but diamond

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Fourth-grader Justin Green picked up "a pretty piece of plastic" at school Friday and shoved it into his pocket.

On Monday, his teacher mentioned that a $7,000 diamond had dropped from her ring and was missing. Justin recalled the "piece of plastic" but couldn't remember where he put it.

Dave Nickerson, principal at Meadowbrook Elementary School, rushed to the youngster's house and began a search with Justin's mother. They found the diamond after taking apart the family washing machine.

"Oh good Lord. We were all happy," said Mrs. Erich Wendel, Justin's teacher and owner of the diamond.

Said Justin, who got a $5 reward for his trouble: "I thought it was a piece of plastic. I was polishing it and making it shine and showing it to the other kids."

No symptoms

High blood pressure, a major contributor to heart attack and stroke, has no usual symptoms. You can have it and not know it. Be in the know. Have your blood pressure checked regularly, and follow your doctor's orders.

Legislator will brief students

Members of the Condit Elementary School Service Club at Claremont will receive firsthand experience about the workings of their government when they receive a briefing from Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, then fly to Sacramento to visit the state Capitol.

Lancaster will visit Condit Friday at 9:15 a.m. to meet the service club.

Club members will fly to Sacramento Feb. 26.

Service club members who will go to Sacramento are Pat McDonald, Mike Stolte, Karen Mason, Jill Bentley, Carolyn Casson, Michelle Faley, Erick Snelson, Stephanie Vaughn, Mark Sterba, Steve Mason, Jimmy Fidak, Darin Edmonds, Jeff McDonald, Stephanie Sauter, and Lenny Davis.

Accompanying them will be Lee T. Bashore, principal; Mrs. Karen Shupe, teacher; Mrs. Adele Schoene, parent volunteer; Mrs. Virginia Stolte, parent; and Mrs. Doris Faley, parent.

Poly business students offer tax help to poor

Students and taxpayers from lower income brackets are being offered free assistance with their income tax forms by students at Cal Poly Pomona's Business Administration School.

The service is part of the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program conducted in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.

Students have been trained to prepare all types of individual income tax returns and small business returns. Tax experts from Cal Poly's business staff will be present at the sessions to resolve difficult tax problems.

VITA workers will be at Business Building 6, Room 124, Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Free parking is available in visitor's parking areas on the campus. Other session dates will be announced later.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Gary Davis on Wednesday or Friday from 8 to 10 a.m. at 598-4234.

Claremont Library to show 3 ski films

Three movies with a skiing theme will be shown as part of the Claremont Library's film program Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

"Flight in White" shows the grace, beauty and skill of skiers as they perform in the spectacular terrain of the Canadian Rockies.

"Ski Touring" illustrates techniques and joys of cross-country skiing. Two former members of the U.S. ski team travel through the Yosemite back country where they demonstrate skiing techniques and such skills as building snow cases from shelter and cooking an evening meal over a camp stove.

"A Place of Refuge," about the recreational activities available in Canada's Kootenay Valley, fills out the program.

6 place on honor list at Calvary

They are Grant Gordon, Dan Angel, Martina Gilbertson and Beth Moseley, all seventh graders; Dione Tracy, an eighth grade student, and Gary Meinburg, a ninth grader.

VIEWFINDERS STUDENT PHOTO COMPETITION TO BE SPONSORED BY THE BROADWAY

Dust off your camera and adjust your focus!

The Broadway Department Stores are again sponsoring the Viewfinders Photography Competition for students, ages 11 to 22. More than $7,000 in cash prizes will be awarded in this widely-acclaimed contest, now in its third year.

Entry blanks are available in Junior, University Shop and Camera Departments at all Broadway stores, and they will be accepted from Saturday, February 14 through Sunday, February 22. Local Store, Special Subject and Grand Prize winners will be selected in both color and black and white categories. Entrants may submit their pictures in either of these categories in their age group: 11 to 16 years and 17 to 22 years.

Each of the 41 Broadway stores will award Broadway merchandise certificates to local winning entries. In addition, one Special Subject prize, a $25 merchandise certificate, will be awarded in each store for the photograph that best explores "America in the Next 200 Years."

All local first place winners will then be eligible for the Grand Prize of $250 for the best overall photo. A $100 First Place award for each age category and for black and white or color will be given, and Runner-Up winners in each category will receive $50.

All entries will be judged on the basis of composition, lighting techniques, and print quality. The entries must be 8x10 prints either in color or black and white. No more than five pictures per student may be entered. Complete competition rules are available at all Broadway stores.

As a special bonus, all winning entries will be displayed in their respective local stores from Saturday, April 10 through Sunday, April 25.

Opryland USA proves Popular for Tour

With special appeal in the Bicentennial year is a new tour offered by Hillsen's Holiday Tours of Redlands. You are invited to swing into Spring with a visit to The Smokies, Opryland, U.S.A., and the Ozarks. Originating locally, the tour includes a flight from L.A. Airport to St. Louis where a delux motorcoach carries you on a 16-day tour through the Smokies, Cumberland and Ozark Mountains. Round-trip transportation to and from L.A.X. is available from Pomona.

The intinerary includes a tour of the rural beauty of Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky; special guides are arranged for visitis to the celebrated horse farms, the University of Kentucky, and the home of Henry Clay at Ashland. All will enjoy a nostalgic ride on the famous Chattanooga Choo-Choo. There is added excitement for those who love country music when we reach Nashville. Here there is a guided tour, including homes of the country-western stars and backstage of The Grand Ole Opry Theater. A high-light of Nashville will be your attendance at the famous Grand Ole Opry, a delightful 2½ hours of country-western music.

Not to be overlooked is the visit to The Hermitage, the home of Andrew Jackson, important in the year '76.

Travel takes the motorcoach through scenic Arkansas to Eureka Springs, the "Little Switzerland of America" which will include an evening performance of the Passion Play. This is Shepherd of the Hills Country, and the tour will include a presentation of the play.

The largest man-made lake in America, The Lake of the Ozarks, will be of special interest in beautiful Missouri. Here all will enjoy a lake cruise.

There will be ample time in St. Louis to visit The Arch, Shaw's Gardens, Forest Park, and excursion on the Mississippi, and to do some shopping at famous Neiman Marcus stores and Sak's Fifth Avenue before your flight back to Los Angeles.

Accompanying the group is an escort/guide to assure your comfort and pleasure and to make this a memorable tour. For a complete descriptive brochure, contact Hillsen's Holiday Tours, P.O. Box 3, or 102 Orange, Redlands 92373
